DEATH'S AWFUL TOLL IN LUSITANIA CATASTROPHE NEAR TWELVE HUNDRED

Latest Estimate Gives One Thousand, One Hundred and Ninety-Eight Human Lives as Sacrificed When German Torpedo Was Sent Crashing Into Great Ocean Grey hound—Tragic Scenes Were Enacted.

QUEENSTOWN DOCKS THE RESTING PLACE FOR BODIES OF MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

World Shudders as Horrible Details Become Known—Dead Mother Clasps Three Months Old Baby in Her Rigid Arms—Beautiful American Woman and Husband Placed Together on the Pier.

The latest estimate of lives lost as a result of the torpedoing of the Cunard liner Lusitania by a German submarine off the Irish coast Friday is 1,198. It is believed that almost all, if not all, the survivors have been brought ashore, and there is little hope of recovering any other passengers alive.

Of the dead, many are women. The stories from Queenstown; describe the bringing in of the bodies of a great number of women, many of them still unidentified. The Queenstown docks are the resting places also of the bodies of several children. One dead mother still is clasping in her rigid arms the body of her three months old baby.

When the Lusitania left New York May 1, she had on board 1,901 souls, 1,251 passengers and 650 crew. The passengers were made up of 291 in the first cabin, 599 in the second, and 361 in the steerage.

The list of survivors [illegible] so far, that about 90 first class and 75 second cla[illegible]assengers were saved. [illegible]assengers were at lunch w[illegible] the mineral[illegible] Ge[illegible] liner to the bottom. I[illegible] noticeable that comp[illegible]ively f[illegible] passengers were saved.

ONLY SEVE[illegible] HUNDRED SURVIVORS.

Tragic Scenes Take Place When Dead Are Landed—British Anger Stirred.

London, [illegible] 9.—Of those who left New York a week ago on the Lusitania less than 700 survived after that vessel was torpedoed and sunk by German submarines off Kinsale, Ireland, Friday afternoon.

A full list of the survivors, which include very few of the first class passengers, is not yet available, but probably there are not many names to add to those which already have been made public. All the evidence goes to show that the first class and many of the second class passengers had such confidence in the ability of the Lusitania because of her watertight compartments, to remain afloat after she received the first blow, that they did not concern themselves about taking to the boats or even providing themselves with life preservers.

When the passengers did realize that the Lusitania was doomed they found that most of the boats on the port side were so jammed because of the great list of the vessel that they could not be lowered and the last seen of them by the more fortunate passengers who had secured places on the starboard boats or who had jumped overboard and had been picked up, they were lined upon the sloping decks awaiting their fate, doubtless even then believing that with land so close they would still be saved.

Afloat Only 20 Minutes.

However, the torpedoes had torn such gapping holes in the liner that she did not remain afloat for more than 20 minutes, and the call for help which the wireless sent out, although answered quickly could not bring the rescuing steamers in time to be of any service.

There is much difference of opinion as to how many torpedoes struck the ship and as to whether an explosion of her boilers followed. In fact, after the first torpedo struck the Lusitania forward the crew were busy getting to the stern and the passengers who escaped in getting to the boats and providing themselves with life belts. In shipping circles and with many survivors the impression prevails that more than one German submarine attacked the Lusitania and that two or more torpedoes found their mark.

This view is held at the Cunard offices at Liverpool but the officers of the ship will make no statement until the inquest or an admiralty inquiry brings out their evidence.

Scenes at Queenstown where the survivors were landed and where there are many bodies of victims, were heartrending. Many women separated from their husbands have been searching the hotels hoping to find them alive or failing in that, have been looking for them in morgues. Others went on to Cork, while still others left yesterday afternoon for London.

Crowds Await News.

At the London and Liverpool offices of the Cunard Company, large crowds again assembled yesterday hopping against hope that those whom they had expected to meet on Saturday at the latest, might still appear but there was little consolation for those who had not already heard from their expected friends or relatives.

Nothing that the Germans have done since the outbreak of the war has aroused the anger and determination of the British people as the sinking of the Lusitania. This anger is shared by the Americans in London who had relatives or friends aboard. Members of the stock exchange insisted upon [illegible] members of German [illegible] naturalized. At [illegible] ut the country [illegible] subjects were [illegible] any's action. But there have been no disorders of any kind.

CATASTROPHE IS DESCRIBED

American Tells of Attack and Events That Followed—Ship Sank Soon.

Cork, May 8.—"From the day we sailed we complacently spoke of the possibilities of the German menace but no one believed it for we scorned the idea of being torpedoed," said F. J. Gauntless, of Washington, who was traveling with A. L. Hopkins, among the missing, and S. M. Knox, of Philadelphia, who was saved.

"A number of us were going over on business. It was shortly after 2—probably ten minutes past—and I was lingering in the dining saloon chatting with my friends, when the first explosion occurred. We knew at once what had happened. Shortly after the ship listed perceptibly. I shouted to the others to close the ports. Some of us went to our berths and put on life belts.

"On making our way to the deck we were informed that there was no danger and we need not be alarmed, but the ship was gradually sinking deeper into the water and efforts were made to launch the boats.

Boat Capsized.

"Fifty or more people entered the first boat and as it swung from the davits it fell suddenly. I think most of the occupants perished. Other boats were launched with the greatest difficulty.

"Swinging free from one of them as it descended I struck out swimming strongly for a piece of wreckage which I observed. On reaching it I found it was one of the collapsible boats but I had to ripe the canvas with a knife before I could get it open. Another passenger climbed into it and between us we were able to get about 30 people out of the water. While we were thus engaged I noticed that the Lusitania was gradually sinking.

"Women and children under the protection of men had clustered in lines her plunge, down a little by the head and heeling at an angle of nearly 90 degrees this little army slid down toward the starboard side dashing themselves against each other as they went until they were engulfed."

Mr. Gantlet said he heard only one explosion and the whole tragedy was over in 20 minutes.

NEW YORK STUNNED DEPRESSION IS FELT

Some of City's Best Known Citizens Among Missing.

ALL MARKETS RECOVER

Following Early Break Stock Market Readjusted Itself and Strength of American Financial Affairs Assured.

New York, May 8.—With some of its best known citizens among the passengers on the Lusitania whose fate had not been accounted for, and, with a growing realization of the awfulness of the catastrophe and the gravity of its international significance, New York today was a sober city.

Awakening this morning to find that the hopes of the night before that the Lusintania's passengers had been saved were premature and that the loss of life might reach two-thirds of those aboard, the whole city seemed stunned. Depression was in evidence among people in all public places.

The Cunard Line received and posted shortly before 10 A. M. an incomplete list of survivors which was anxiously scanned by friends and relatives. There were touching scenes when women, the names of whose loved ones were among the missing, gave way to their emotions.

Gloom spread over the theatrical district when it became known that the body of Charles Frohman, the theatrical producer, had been picked up among the dead, and that Charles Klein, another theatrical producer, was among the missing. There was similar depression among friends of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Elbert Hubbard, Justus Miles Forman and others from whom no word had been received.

Financial Poise Recovered.

The financial district gave evidence of having recovered its poise, lost yesterday when first news of the catastrophe precipitated a violent decline in stocks. Today after a preliminary break the market recovered and behaved normally during the remainder of the session. Leading bankers, it was said, had entered the market with supporting orders.

In shipping circles there was much concern for ships now in or approaching the German war zone and many unfounded rumors were in circulation of other ships having been torpedoed. Maritime records show that 88 ships now are passing through or due to arrive in the zone. Of those 13 are passenger ships. One is the American liner New York, due in Liverpool tomorrow. The American liner Philadelphia steamed today with cabins full. Passengers pointed to the Stars and Stripes floating at the liner's stern when the possibility of danger was suggested.

Advertisement Reappears.

What was taken in shipping circles as an indication that Germany had no intention of abating its programme of torpedoing British ships from American ports was the re-appearance in the newspapers this morning of the advertisements of the German embassy

BODY OF THEATRICAL MANAGER RECOVERED

Charles Frohman, Playwright, of New York, Among Dead.

Famous the World Over as a Producer Frohman Was Little Known in New York Where He Lived —Native Born American.

Queenstown, May 8.—The body of Charles Frohman, the theatrical manager, of New York, has been recovered and taken to Queenstown.

Frohman Little Known.

New York, May 8.—Charles Frohman, one of the most successful New York theatrical managers, was at the same time one of the least known publicly. It was only a few years ago that the first picture of him was published, although he had been in the theatrical business since 1874.

Mr. Frohman was born in Sandusky, Ohio, in 1860. His brother, Daniel, who is seven years older, was private secretary to Horace Greeley and sent for Charles, then a lad of 12, and gave him a place as night clerk in The Tribune office here. In 1877 he went West to take charge of the Chicago Comedy Company, of Which John Dillon was the star. The next year with J. H. Haverly he organized the Haverly Mastodon Minstrels which he subsequently took to England.

Mr. Frohman's first real bid for fortune was in November, 1888, when he obtained the American rights to Bronson Howard's "Shendoah." He made $50,000 from this. In recent years

GREAT REJOICING IN GERMANY OVER LUSITANIA'S LOSS

Official Statement Given Out by Berlin Government Concerning Action.

HALF HOLIDAY GIVEN

Americans on Vessel Declared to Have Taken Trip at Their Own Risk.

Towns Beflagged Throughout South Germany.

Berlin, (via Wireless to London).—May 9.—The following official communication was issued tonight:

"The Cunard liner Lusitania was yesterday torpedoed by a German submarine and sunk.

"The Lusitania was naturally armed with guns as were recently most of the British mercantile steamers. Moreover, as is well known here, she had large quantities of war material in her cargo.

"Her owners, therefore, knew to what danger the passengers were exposed. They alone bear all the responsibility for what has happened.

"Germany, on her part, left nothing undone to repeatedly and strongly warn them. The imperial ambassador in Washington even went so far as to make a public warning, so as to draw attention to this danger. The English newspapers sneered then at the warning and relied on the protection of the British fleet to safeguard Atlantic traffic."

GREAT REJOICING IN GERMANY

Towns Beflagged and Childrep Given Half Holiday in Honor of Event.

Geneva, May 8, (via Paris, May 9) —12:45 a. m.)—A dispatch from Munich, Bavaria, received at Basel, says the German submarine U-39 sank the Lusitania.

There were great rejoicings today in southern Germany, according to the advices. Towns were beflagged, especially along the Rhine, and the children had a half holiday in honor of the event. The rejoicings are said to have spread even to Vienna and Budapest. It is said that the general feeling in Germany and Austria is that the Americans on board the steamer had been warned previously of their danger and that they, therefore, undertook the voyage at their own risk.

"LET THEM THINK"

Is Only Statement of German Ambassador as to Opinion of Americans.

New York, May 8.—After remaining in seclusion at his hotel here the entire day, Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, left for Washington at 6:10 tonight. It was not, however, before he had run a gauntlet of newspaper men who had been awaiting him at the entrance of his hotel and who pursued him to the Pennsylvania station and into his car in their determination to obtain an interview.

"Let them thing," he was quoted as saying when asked what he thought the American people would think of the torpedoing of the Lusitania. His final statement, after refusing to answer a quick fire of questions, was that he would say nothing until proof was furnished that the Lusitania had in fact been torpedoed by a German submarine.

Warm War Wirelets

Hostilities by land and by sea are proceeding vigorously. Land battles are in progress at various points along both the western and eastern lines. German submarines continue their sinking of ships and a British torpedo boat has been sent to the bottom by striking a mine in the North sea.

The hardest battling on land continues in the Carpathian region where the Austrians say the Teutonic allies continue to make progress. Petrograd, on the other hand, while admitting heavy fighting is going on asserts that the attacks against the Russians between the Vistula and the Carpathians have had no success, that the Teutons have suffered enormous losses and that they are showing signs of fatigue.

Berlin says the important port of Libau on the Baltic has been taken by the Germans and that in so doing, German sea forces bombarded Libau. Petragrad admits that torpedo boats shelled the port of Libau but adds that one of the hostile craft was sunk.

Artillery engagements have taken place along the whole front in France and Paris records that the French had advanced on the right bank of the Pecht river about two-thirds of a mile over a front of nearly a mile in the direction of Metseral.

MRS. CARMAN IS FOUND INNOCENT OF MURDER

Verdict of Acquittal Reached After Short Deliberation.

State's Case Was Based Upon Testimony of Negro Maid Whom Judge Said Was "Careless With Truth"—The Verdict.

Mineola, N. Y., May 8.—A verdict of acquittal was reached after a short deliberation late today by the jury trying Mrs. Florence Carman on the charge of murdering Mrs. Louise Bailey at Freeport on the night of June 30.

The jury was agreed on the first ballot and the verdict was returned one hour and 12 minutes after the jury had retired. Mrs. Carman beamed with happiness when the verdict was announced. She shook hands with all the jurors, then left with her husband for their home in Freeport. In his charge to the jury Justice Blackmar said the state's case centered on the testimony of Clia Coleman, a negro maid in the Carman household, who testified that Mrs. Carman had darted into the kitchen the night of the murder with a revolver in her hand, and announced: "I killed him." The Coleman woman also testified that Mrs. Carman had come to her room early the next morning and expressed repentance for having "killed that poor woman."

In his charge Justice Blackmar said:

"It has been obviously shown that she (Celia Coleman) was careless of the truth, but that is not conclusive. It is for you to decide after considering all the circumstances whether the primary question in this case is whether you believe Cecilia Coleman."

WILSON CONSIDERS FUTURE ACTION "WITH DELIBERATION AND FIRMNESS"

Chief Executive of the United States, Upon Whom the Eyes of the World Are Focussed, Studies in Quiet Seclusion the Grave Situation Thrust Upon the American Government and His Administration.

NO TIME TO "ROCK THE BOAT," IS THE COMMENT OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

White House Statement Issued by Tumulty Declares That the President Will Reach Conclusion After Grave Deliberation—Will Probably Submit Plan for Action to the Cabinet During Monday or Tuesday.

Washington, May 8. — President Wilson, upon whom the eyes of the world are focussed at the present moment, studied in quiet seclusion today the aspects of law and fact in connection with the sinking by a German torpedo of the British liner Lusitania, with a consequent loss of many American lives.

The great human tragedy, coupled with the responsibilities of the hour, caused the President to deny himself to all callers, even to members of his official family, while he turned over in his mind the course to be pursued by the United States government in one of the most serious crises in its history.

The only glimpse of the workings of the President's mind was given when the White House tonight issued its first formal comment on the disaster. The announcement was made that the President realized the country expected him to deal with the situation "with deliberation as well as firmness."

White House Statement.

After a conference with the President at the White House this evening, Secretary Tumulty said:

"Of course the President feels the distress and the gravity of the situation to the utmost and is considering very earnestly, but very calmly, the right course of action to pursue. He knows that the people of the country wish and expect him to act with deliberation as well as with firmness."

The official data upon which formal action will be based had not arrived. The President therefore did not communicate with Secretary Bryan or officials of the State Department. Nor did he consult members of the cabinet or Congress.

He has given such close personal attention in the last few weeks to the particular questions involved that he was thought to be determined first to sift for himself the various questions and shape a policy to be submitted to the cabinet, probably on Monday or Tuesday.

Wants Public Opinion.

In the meantime public opinion was expected to crystalize and help point the way. Members of the cabinet held themselves in readiness for the President's call. At the State Department when Secretary Bryan was asked if there was any advice to communicate to the American people at this time, he replied that he did not think this was needed for the country understood the situation.

"This is no time to 'rock the boat'," he said.

It was the same sentiment which Chairman Stone, of the Senate Foreign Relations committee had expressed earlier in the day. The single phrase expressed the desire of the Washington administration that prejudices and passions be not thrust into the unstable equilibrium while the government endeavored to learn all the details.

One important fact was definitely ascertained by the Washington government today from the port authorities at New York, who gave clearance to the Lusitania—that she carried no guns either mounted or unmounted, in accordauce with the caution of the State Department and the British government early in the war. This disposed in the minds of officials of the claim that the German submarine had a right to attaek the Lusitania because she was an auxiliary or converted cruiser. The officials of the Cunard Line are understood to have stated that the Lusitania was not convoyed.

No Excuse for Act.

These, in the opinion of the law officers of the American government, left the Germans no excuse under the law or reason for an attack without warning on a ship with hundreds of noncombatants including neutral men, women and children. The position of the United States has been that the presence of contraband—even arms and ammunition—according to the rules of international law, including the Declaration of London which Germany has upheld, cannot warrant the sinking of a merchantman without the previous exercise of the right of visit and search and the removal of non-combatants to a place of safety. The government stated this in its last note to Germany, and at the same time issued a warning that the Imperial German government would be held "to a strict accountability" by the United States for any loss of American vessels or lives.

The decision which the President and his advisers must reach, it was admitted in all quarters, is a momentous one. Those officials conversant with the legal aspects of the case pointed out that the United States faced a grave and serious problem of lasting importance in history, as all the world—neutrals and belligerents alike—would wait with acute expectancy for the course which the United States would pursue to preserve the rules of international law, particularly the rights of neutrals with respect to the safety of non-combatants on merchant ships at sea.

Advertisements Remembered.

The suggestion that the warnings by the German embassy in newspaper advertisements should have been sufficient to deter Americans from traveling aboard ships flying the British flag was widely commented upon among diplomatists. At the State Department Secretary Bryan revealed that the embassy's warning had never been officially communicated to the State Department, and that since the announcement by the German admiralty in February of its proclamation of a war zone the American protest and the reply from Germany saying the government would disclaim responsibility for accidents to neutrals the subject for several weeks had not been officially mentioned between the Berlin and Washington governments.

Among a few diplomatists there was a disposition to criticise Americans for minimizing these warnings.

With respect to the reports that the State Department had discouraged the travel of Americans to Europe, Secretary Bryan said:

"We have discouraged ever since the beginning of the war the going abroad of any naturalized Americans and have declined to give passports to Americans who wanted to go abroad for pleasure, but have given them to those going on business."

The appalling nature of the disaster, bringing home to those who had friends on board the Lusitania the human side of the occurrence, was apparent in the demeanor of high officials. They were grieved—sick at heart.

Searching for Information.

The consular and diplomatic machinery of the government in the meantime, sought information from every available source concerning survivors and lent aid to the injured or destitute.

In diplomatic quarters in Washington the incident continued the greatest sensation of the war.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, was still away and no comment was made at the German embassy but among German officials and diplomatists friendly to the Germanic allies, there was retraced the argument which Germany has insisted upon as her justification for submarine warfare on merchant ships. It was reiterated that Great Britain by preventing foodstuffs from reaching the civilian population of Germany threatened her noncombatants with starvation. In the face of such an act, they declared, Germany made whatever reprisals were possible, however severe. The presence on the Lusitania of 42,000 cases of cartridges was pointed to as a potent argument for the vessel's destruction.

The impression prevailed tonight that the sinking of the American steamer Gulflight, the attack on the British steamer Falaba which resulted in the drowning of Leon C. Thresher, an American citizen, and the attack by airmen on the American steamer Cushing, would be grouped together in general representations from the United States to Germany. President Wilson has made a careful investigation of the legal aspects of the Falaba case, so that the torpedoing of the Lusitania required little research further in that connection. The problem before him has therefore resolved itself, it was understood to pursly one

AIDING GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS IN RUSSIA

Work of American Legations is Highly Developed.

Plan Hastily Adopted by Legation at Outbreak of War Has Been Developed and Added to Extensively in Past Months.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Petrograd, April 30.—The system hurriedly instituted by the American embassy at the outbreak of war, for the relief of German and Austrian residents of Russia, has been developed by Montgomery Schuyler, special agent of the State Department, into a smoothly working machine which handles the details with utmost dispatch. Mr. Schuyler's work is done and he has turned the management of this relief work over to H. P. D. Pierce, another appointee of the State Department, and has left for home to look after his personal affairs, pending possible similar assignment in another field.

When the war began, the embassy in Petrograd found itself poorly equipped to handle the extra work in the care of the Germans and Austrians. In addition to being short-handed, not a member of the staff spoke German, Hungarian or any of the Austrian dialects. Charge d'Affaires Wilson was given authority to hire help, if necessary, and to go ahead on his own initiative. The first embarrassment was lack of funds. Neither the German nor Austrian governments appeared to appreciate the requirements in this direction that developed almost immediately. The amount first authorized by them for the work was totally inadequate to meet the demands. This difficulty was overcome, however, as soon as the facts would be made known, and soon relief funds began to pour in.

In the early stages, the plight of Germans and Austrians taxed not only the embassy staff, but was a poser for the Russian local authorities throughout central and southwestern Russia. These aliens were ordered from their homes by the exigencies of war, within a zone extending for 60 miles from the frontier and from many districts along the Baltic. Most of them were caught without money, and were driven off to interior towns in a penniless plight.

Accordingly the American embassy, and the American consulates, where there were such, became flooded with appeals for funds. Charge Wilson, and his assistants, Jones and Furness, worked day and night over the mass of cable and mail correspondence that grew from day to day. A bureau of inquiry was established, apart from the embassy proper, in charge of Karl Kukman, a Swede temporarily employed, and soon funds were being dispatched in every direction at the rate of from 10,000 to 50,000 doubles daily. With the arrival of Schuyler, early in January, he strengthened this inquiry bureau by employing a corps of typists and clerks, and organized another bureau at the embassy to handle all general inquiries, regarding both civil and military prisoners and for the transmission of personal funds, which began arriving from relatives of the detained ones. Throughout the country Schuyler organized the civil prisoners themselves by having one of their number chosen as the responsible head of each individual group, charged with transmitting details of the requirements of the members. To this responsible head funds were sent for relief.

This responsibility had formerly rested on the local Russian police authorities, and Schuyler complimented them warmly for the generally conscientious and efficient discharge of their unsought duties. It is an additional tribute to them that in several instances German members of certain groups have written, asking that the chief of their own selection be removed and the Russian police official be replaced.

In the midst of all these operations came Ambassador Marye. He found Secretary Wilson running things in a highly commendable way and was satisfied to leave practical control of the relief work in his hands until Schuyler arrived.

Before leaving for home Schuyler made a tour of the military camps as far to the southeast as the Turkestan frontier, returning through the Transcaspian and Caucasian country. He traveled 6,000 miles, inspected eight camps cantaining approximately 50,000 prisoners. On his return, he said that on the whole, the prisoners were well fed, well housed and well clothed. Their daily rations were three pounds of black bread, half a pound of meat, unlimited tea and a small quantity of sugar, besides a substantial soup, which after gastronomical test, he pronounced equal to that served him at most of the railway restaurants en route.

WILSON CONSIDERS HIS FUTURE ACTION

of policy—what steps would be taken—in accordance with the American warning that Germany "would be held to a strict accountability."

Inquiry Was Ordered.

The President knew before he retired last night that there had been a big loss of life. He telephoned Secretary Bryan then, directing an inquiry into the facts. Early today he played golf. When he returned to luncheon he read the official dispatches. Later he took an automobile ride alone and upon his return tonight he talked briefly with Secretary Tumulty, who issued the statement on his behalf. Afterwards the President again went motoring.

While not the slightest intimation came from the White House, officials in department circles heard a variety of speculations discussed. One course suggested was that a note be sent to Germany demanding an explanation of the occurrence with a request for an indemnity. Another was that American vessels hereafter be convoyed by American battleships and cruisers.

The severance of diplomatic relations without an actual declaration of war with Germany was also talked of informally.

Will Support President.

Some telegrams reaching the White House said the President would be supported even if he thought war was necessary to demand American rights on the high seas. Other messages counseled peace and declared the country was solidly opposed to becoming involved in the European conflict.

Steps thus far taken by the American government have been confined to formal inquiries. Ambassador Gerard was instructed to ask the German foreign office to obtain through the admiralty a report from its submarine as to what the circumstances of the disaster were.

Ambassador Page was also instructed to ascertain all the facts which the British government or survivors might furnish to the embassy at London.

Secretary Bryan late in the day announced that 69 Americans had landed safe and several were dead. The remainder were missing. White House and State Department offices received scores of inquiries by telegraph and telephone.

All other government business was temporarily overshadowed. The Far Eastern situation in which overnight crisis had been averted was lost sight of as was the reported annexation of Belgium by Germany.

warning travelers that they took passage on British ships at their own risk. It was reported that the advertisement would re-appear regularly every Saturday in the near future.

Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador, was at his hotel in New York today, but remained in seclusion.

F. P. Gaskell, in charge of the freight movements of the Cunard Line, denied a report that there had been picric acid aboard the Lusitania. Mr. Gaskell said there were no explosives, ammunition or any inflammable material on the ship.

STOCK MARKET RECOVERS.

Situation Well in Hand—Bankers Come to Aid and Situation Saved.

New York, May 8.—To those who expected developments from the sinking of the Lusitania would create havoc in quoted values, today's stock market must have been a disappointment. Prices fell in headlong fashion at first, but recovered with such ease on substantial buying as to leave few traces of early declines.

In the first 15 minutes losses of 3 to 10 points were general, but absorptive power overcame selling pressure and restored values all around. Net choages shnwed few material losses, except in the group of speculative specialties and even their initial recesses were largely effaced.

Wall Street began the day with many misgivings. There were informal conferences between its officials and leading banking interests, the reason of which was apparent in support orders that followed the initial declines. The situation was thoroughly in hand and at no time was any necessity seen for exercise of repressive measures.

DESTROYER STRIKES MINE.

And is Lost—Rescue Boats from Another Vessel Fired On.

London, May 8.—The following official communication was issued this evening:

"While operating off the Belgian coast the torpedoboat destroyer Maori, Commander B. W. Barrow, Royal Navy, struck a mine about two miles northwest of the Weilingen lightship.

"The crew took to the boats when the ship was sinking. The torpedoboat destroyer Crusader, Lieut. Com. G. L. D. Mebbs, in command, which was in company with the Maori, lowered her boats to assist in picking up the crew of the Maori but the enemy them opened fire from shore batteries and the Crusader, after being under fire for an hour and a half had to leave her boats and retire.

THEATRICAL

The Week at the Bijou.

They're getting bigger every week—the "Incomparable Movies." For instance glance down this list of some of the headliners to the opening week.

'Shadows of the Harbor," two reel United with Edna Payne and Nobert Myles; "Two Hearts and a Ship, Vicky Forde and Eddie Lyons; "The Artist and the Vengeful One," Rosemary Theby and Harry Myers.

"The War of the Wilds,' 'one of the most thrilling dramas of the year, features Tuesday's bill, followed by "Love and Handcuffs," Sidnew Ayres and Doris Paw; "Her Own Accuser," two-reel United Drama with Robert 'arnell, and "Courting Trouble,' 'a United scream with Mirian Swayne.

Wednesday "The Black Box,' 'also a full reel of great Billie Ritchie, in "Poor Policy," and Charlie DeForrest, the old Bijou favorite in a great United scream.

Thursday "Matty's Decision," great two- reel drama featuring Christy Mathewson, Hobart Henley and Dorothy Phillips. "The Long Shift," two-reel United and Nobert Myles and Edna Payne, and two other big single reels.

Saturday for the week-end, Pauline Bush and William Clifford in "Unlike Other Girls," a great two-reel drama; "His Bobs the Duke,' 'a great Nestor scream, and "Ach! Louie," a mammoth United comedy with James Aubrey, the great Broadway comedy star.

The Victoria.

In "Gretna Green" Marguerite Clark scores in the Paramount production of Old English romance.

Being a piquant little person, equally fetching whether she smiles or pouts of laughs or flies into a tantrum, Marquerite Clark has no trouble in depicting an English belle of about 100 years ago. Her name is Dolly Erskine, the winsome heroine of "Gretna Green," a play by Grace Livingston Furniss, dome into a four-part picture by the Famous Players Film Company. Miss Clark charms with girlish coquetries becoming to a dainty Miss. She bobs her head and the dark ringlets dance around her shoulders; she stamps her feet and because she is so cute the bursts of temper are attractive. Once she even faints from a too sudden emotion; but for the most part Dolly appears to be a light-hearted young woman, not unlike the suggestion of the name.

"Gretna Green," it may be recalled, is the romance of a girl who unwittingly becomes the wife of an earl, then falls in love with him in time to prevent the acceptance of a divorce decree. While Dolly is falling in love, the earl continues to pose as a riding master, and as such wins the heart of his pretty bride. The Scotch marriage law is the pivot of the plot. To save the good name of her sister, Dolly declares that the pseudo riding master is her husband, not realising that they have crossed the border into Scotland and that the confession of marriage is binding. Gretna Green was a favorite goal for eloping couples in those days and it possessed a suitably idyllic atmosphere, if one may credit the testimony of this picture. The settings, interiors as well as exteriors, are a great addition to the production. There is no escaping the charm of the scenes even when the dramatic or comedy worth of the story is not marked. The costuming, too, aids in creating a correct impression.

At the Grand.

The Grand Theatre is announcing for tomorrow's programme three exceptionally strong attractions and promises for the entire week pictures of the highest quality and the best known stars of the movie firmament.

The two reel Keystone comedy, "Gussel's Day of Rest," is a positive riot of laughs and fun. Syd Chaplin and his associate do themselves proud in this farce comedy and to attempt to describe it would be out of the question—just see it and then be glad you didn't miss it. The Lubin drama "Mother of Pearl", Arthur Johnson and Lottie Briscoe play opposite to each other and the acting of both is all that could be desired. The theme deals with the mother-in-law question with Eleanor Blanchard appearing as that important personage. Like most mother-in-law pictures, it is filled with many comical situations and most of the fun is at the expense of the mother-in-law.

The two-reel Broncho "Winning Back" is a virile, gripping drama with the "Eternal Triangle" as its theme, though handled quite differently from some that have gone on before. It is a domestic story and the interest is developed right from the start and holds to the very finish in the big cabaret scene where the husband with his affinity meets his wife who seems to be looking for an affinity and well—you had best see this picture and maybe you can decide then as to whether there should be a single standard of morals or not.

ROCKY MOUNT DEFEATS THE NORFOLK TARS FOUR TO THREE

Rocky Mount, N. C., May 8.—Coming up from behind and after there was a two-run lead when Thrasher hit out of the park, Rocky Mount defeated the Norfolk Tars by a four to three score that went 10 innings before a decision. Humphries for Norfolk, was opposed by O'Brien and both pitchers went well, the visiting southpaw getting off for the better in the opening frames, but losing his hold towards the last. He was hit hard, but seldom timely until the 10th, when a two-base clout, a sacrifice and sacrifice fly gave the Tar Heels the winning run.

FIRST ROUND MATCH PLAYED

Weather Was Ideal Past Week for Golfers of Cape Fear Country Club —Pairings for the Week.

The first rounds of the annual spring tournament of the Cape Fear Country club were played the past week on the links of the club. The weather, the entire week, was most ideal for golf and some interesting matches were played. There were several surprises in the men's matches, one of the most notable being the come-back of one of the older players. He defeated one of the cracks and eliminated him from future anticipation by the score of four up and three to play.

The match between Mr. Charles E. Taylor and Mr. W. A. Townes was most interesting, Mr. Townes having won out on the 18th hole. The match play between Mr. A. B. Skelding and Mr. J. C. McEachin in the second flight was intensely exciting, it taking 21 holes to decide it. Mr. Skelding won the match one up.

Following are the pairings for this week's play, Saturday being the regular schedule for the men's matches and Friday for the ladies, but the match may be played on any other day that is agreeable to the pairs.

However, First Negro Caught Fails to Identify Him as Accomplice.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., May 8.—The second of the two negroes wanted in connection with the attempted criminal assault upon the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. F. A. O'Neal while the family were asleep Wednesday night, was arrested at Wallace last night and brought here and lodged in jail this morning. His name is James Carter and his home is at Wallace.

The first negro, who was arrested Thursday, gives his name as Robert Williams, and he would not identify the one jailed here today, but, as he had previously stated that his accomplice was the day fireman at the mill, and as Carter is the day fireman, together with the fact that he ran when he saw the officers and men approaching the mill yesterday, it is believed that he is certainly the man wanted.

Williams was asked to pick his accomplice from four negroes and instead of doing so said they were all with him when the girl's room was entered, and several more besides. This is taken to mean that he is attempting to feign insanity, but those who have observed him closely saw he is unusually bright. He bears on his body bullet marks.

ELLIS PRINCE ARRESTED?

Man Arrested at Southport Thought to Be One Wanted in Columbus.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Tabor, N. C., May 8.—Chief of Police Seales received a telephone message from Southport yesterday about 1 o'clock stating that a white man answering the description of Ellis Prince had been arrested there about noon. Prince is wanted in this county on various charges of theft, burglary and arson.

Policeman Seales, assisted by citizens, had been for several days on what seemed to be a fruitless chase for Prince. Mr. Seales had information early yesterday morning that Prince was supposed to have boarded a boat at Little River bound for Southport. He at once telephoned officers there and at Wilmington to be on the lookout for him. Messrs. Broddy and Harrelson accompanied Policeman Seales to Southport yesterday afternoon to identify the man and bring him on here if he proved to be Prince.

WILL NOT BE REPUBLICAN

Editor Declares New Burgaw Paper Not Political.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., May 8.—Mr. L. L. Motte, the editor and manager of the Pender Enterprise, the new paper to be started in the interests of the free rangers, repudiates, the intimation that the paper is to be Republican, saying that he is and has always been a Democrat, and that the paper will be neutral in politics, as the free rangers are Democrats and Republicans.

"The editor and manager of this new paper has always been, is and always will be a Democrat," he says. "The Pender Enterprise, however, will take no part in politics, except to fight for the cause of free range, and was organized by the Free Rangers of Pender county for that purpose."

GIANTS TAKE LEAD IN CITY LEAGUE STANDING

Y.M.C.A. Won from Boys Brigade in Fast Game 5 to 4

W. L. I. Swamped by Giants by the Score of 19 to Nothing—Register Gets 18 Strike Outs—First Game Fastest.

Results of the play at Sunset Park yesterday afternoon put the Giants at the head of the percentage column, the Boys' Brigade at the bottom, while W. L. I. and the Y. M. C. A. are tied for second place. The first game, between the Y. M. C. A. and the Boys' Brigade was one of the fastest played in City League ball in several years and resulted in a 5 to 4 victory for the "Y" boys. The second game was entirely one sided, the Giants overwhelming the W. L. I. by the score of 19 to 0.

Register walked off with the pitching honors again, letting the W. L. I. down with one safe hit and getting 18 strike outs to his credit. Two fast double plays by the Y. M. C. A. and the general good team work of both teams featured the first game. The W. L. I. boys got in a double play in the second game in which Silverman, Thompson and Orrell participated. Holt, pitching for the Boys' Brigade, is credited with 12 strikeouts, Green, for the W. L. I. with ten in six innings, Hamilton for the Y. M. C. A. with six and Shaw for the W. L. I. with three in three innings.

In the first game McKenzie starred at the bat getting three hits out of three times up. Four extra base hits were gathered, Irving a double, Holt a double, Jacobs a double and Irving for three bags. Dixon was hit by a pitched ball. Huhn was walked in the last inning.

The second game was a farce throughout, the Giants finding Shaw after two men were out in the first inning and driving out six hits, which, coupled with a free pass to first and three errors, netted eight scores. Fourteen scores were made in the first three innings, eleven hits being secured. Shaw was relieved by Green in the fourth and was given better support than his predecessor, allowing only five hits and five scores in the six innings in which he worked. Register was accorded almost perfect support and held the opposing team hitless until the eighth, when Houston got a single over second. Davis and Kite got three hits each out of six times up. Shaw walked Register and hit Snakenburg, Green walked Register and was charged with two wild pitches. Houston claimed a free pass from Register, while Green received two complimentary trips to first. Bell was struck by a pitched ball.

The score by innings:

FAIRMONT TEAM HANDS GOOSE EGG TO LUMBERTON TEAM.

Fairmont, N. C., May 8.—Fairmont shut out Lumberton here today 8 to 0. The whole Fairmont team hit and fielded like fiends, only one error being charged to them. Ratley, in right field, and Soggie Floyd, at first base, featured for Fairmont, Minton was on the mound for Fairmont and pitched a good game, striking out 13 men and allowing only two hits.

Batteries: Lumberton, Plummer and Byrd; Fairmont, Minton and Nye; umpire Jones.

SUNDAY, MAY 9, 1915.

As an innocent bystander during the war in Europe, we come next to China.

A Wilmington man boasts that he made a trip to New York on $50. Probably so, if he went to attend a Sunday school convention.

An evangelist says "a man has to account for everything he does." However, it is difficult to get him to account to everybody he does.

Uncle Joe Cannon prided himself on being elected again from the Danville (Ill.) district, but Danville has gotten even with him by going dry on him.

Says a headline in a New Yrk paper: "Bryan After Rum Here." If he surely was after it, he hit on a town where he could get all he wanted. But we don't believe he wanted any.

When we talk about folks in a kind of wild-cat way and are not able to prove a word we say, we are guilty of libel, although we want to get out of it by saying that it was only a mistake.

Who ever heard of a tight-wad being kidnaped and whirled away in an automobile to be relieved of his wad? It can't be done satisfactorily. A tight-wad keeps only jitney bus fare in his pocket.

Says the Akron (Ohio) Beacon-Journal: "The singing of Home, Sweet Home by the audience brought tears to many eyes." Probably the audience brought on its own grief by its attempt to sing.

Probably if Barnes has been libeled the damages couldn't possibly be more than a cent. The case at Syracuse ought to teach men to quit doing such scandalous things that nothing short of libel will fit their case.

The wife of a Minneapolis man deserted him 38 years ago. Finally, convinced that she was not going to get tired staying away from home, he concluded to get a divorce so he can be a free man once more.

This is the time of year when a boy insists on going barefooted, even if he has to have two or three toe nails threatening to come off or his stone bruise is shown to other boys as evidence that he has the worst one of all.

The paragraphers are again attempting to revive interest in the rumor that a one dolair bill contains two million microbes. Of course, it is all guess work. No paragrapher keeps a dollar long enough to note whether its face is clean or not.

We hope our women who attended that peace conference at The Hague will make a safe return. Judging from the remarks made at the confab, we just know our American ladies felt as if they'd like to pull the hair of some of the delegates who palavered along hysterical lines when they began to discuss peace.

The authorities in San Francisco recently made a raid on the grocery stores and carried off 25,000 sets of scales which were dumped into the bay. The only thing that kept such a high-handed act from being an outrage was that the scales had contracted a regular habit of short-weighting all the innocent by-standers who dropped into the stores to get their money's worth.

A Maharaja is a sort of Indian prince who is permitted to hold on to his earthly possessions and gather in several new brides when the debutante season rolls around. However, his power does not amount to any more than a pipe dream, for all that is attended to by a lot of English gentlemen who drop in occasionally on a Maharaja when he decides to keep it from being dull at his imaginary paradise. One of these Maharajas hit New York a few days ago, accompanied by his youngest wife and a retinue of servants. According to the New York way of estimating a man's wealth, his rating consists of $3,000,000, six wives, and a lot of Oriental ideas of graudeur. Of course, New York counted his money first and will be interested in him to his last jitney.

COAST LINE'S NEW PURPLE FOLDER.

The May edition of the Atlantic Coast Line's "Purple Folder" is just out, with the various schedules of the system corrected up to April 25th. A new purple folder is always welcomed by the traveling public, for it is a good companion for one traveling anywhere in the South, or whether coming south, going north, east or west, or going and coming from all parts of America. It is a ready reference schedule folder of 50 pages, with an index to all stations along the various roads of the system throughout the greater part of the South Atlantic and the Middle South. It also contains a general index to a great variety of information for passengers. There is also an index to the railroads, north and south, connecting with the various railroads of the Coast Line. In fact, passengers who want to know things needn't bother to ask questions, for the folder has the information ready and the indices will tell where it can be found.

In the purple folder attention is called to the Coast Line's excursion rates to the California expositions, and in it prospective visitors to 'Frisco and the West will learn all about the fares, folders and all particulars regarding the trip. Attention is also directed to special trains and low rates to Richmond on account of the great Confederate reunion to be held at the historic capital of the Confederate States of America, June 1, 2 and 3. There will be very low rates from all Southern points to Richmond.

Among the welcome information is that the Atlantic Coast Line will put on homeseekers' excursion fares from Washington, D. C.; Cairo, Ill.; Cincinnati, O.; Evansville, Ind., and from many other points farther west, as well as from many points in Kentucky. The reduced fares for homeseekers, are to points in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama. The homeseekers' rates will go into effect May 14th, May 18th, June 1st, June 15th, July 6th and July 20th, tickets limited to reach starting point 21 days from date of sale, but not including date of sale.

On one page of the folder the homeseeker and land investor is told that it is time to buy a farm in "The Nation's Garden Spot," the great winter garden which supplies the cities of the Northern states with fresh vegetables and fruits. "No portion of the country," it is proclaimed, "has such varied soils suited to diversified farm crops—for livestock and dairying. There is no section more favored in the way of soil, climatic conditions and accessibility to the great markets of the United States than the territory traversed by the Atlantic Coast Line."

"The New Corn Growing States" are named in the folder as Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. It is announced that improved methods of agriculture and the work of the Boys' Corn Clubs have demonstrated the fact that larger yields of corn can be made per acre than in any other part of the United States, owing to the long, warm growing season and the abundance of rainfall. The late Dr. S. A. Knapp, special agent in charge of the bureau of plant industry, United States Department of Agriculture, knew what he was talking about when, in discussing the boys' corn club work, he said: "The work further shows that the true corn country is in the South because corn is a tropical plant, about four-fifths of the plant being of atmospheric origin."

The Atlantic Coast Line is always making progress. It has spent millions in double tracking its through lines, while $359,961.67 represents the exact expenditure recently made for the installation of electric automatic block signals between Richmond, Va., and Jacksonville, Fla. Nearly 50 per cent of the main line between Washington and Jacksonville is protected with this system. Sixty-five additional miles are under construction.

The purple folder contains a recent editorial from The Star concerning the prime advantages of a section which has such superior transportation facilities as those which link Eastern North Carolina with America's greatest markets. That article calls attention to the fact that it is the straight rail haul, in refrigerator cars, from this great producing region to the centers of consumption, which gives "The Nation's Garden Spot" pre-eminent advantage and signal superiority over any other portion of America.

The Atlantic Coast Line is some booster as well as the leader in constructiveness among Southern railroads, and it never loses an opportunity to spread broadcast the matter which emphasizes the unrivalled adaptabilities and possibilities of the "Nation's Garden Spot." The purple folder is circulated all over the United States by thousands, and besides being what it is, it also is a splendid medium of publicity.

CHINA'S FATE

The Associated Press dispatches indicated Friday that it would be about all over with China today when the time limit on Japan's ultimatum is up. The indications were that China, under menace of invasion by her powerful neighbor, while she is in her present state of unpreparedness, would finally yield to all of Japan's demands. Probably in America and England we do not fully comprehend Japan's plans. At any rate, it is stated that more excitement prevails in New York over the Japanese-China negotiations than prevails in Peking itself. The London News takes to heart the action of Japan. In Friday's issue that great English paper bitterly comments, in part, as follows:

"It would not be easy to parallel such demands from one power to another as Japan has made on China. In many respects they are more stringent than the Austrian demands upon Serbia, which led to the European war, and China has done nothing to incur such a penalty. She offered no menace to Japan and she wanted only to enjoy her own liberties in her own way. If China had been a military nation she never would have been thus challenged. She has neither the will nor the power to take an unfriendly and irreconcilable course toward her powerful neighbor, and it is grotesque to suggest that she is responsible for the crisis. It will be the last and the most bitter tragedy of this war if one of its consequences be that an unoffending nation, whose independence and integrity the Anglo-Japanese alliance has guaranteed, is to be despoiled by one of the signatories of that alliance."

Probably Japan has two objects in view—the main one to set up a sort of Monroe doctrine in Asia. Doubtless she thinks that is the safest thing to do for lasting peace in the Orient. She knows what the white peril has done for Asia in the past. She had to chase one of the land pirates out of China when she had a war with Russia a few years ago to keep that enormous country from gobbling up Manchuria and probably other territory which had anything like desirable landscape to it. That war cost Japan a pile of money and thousands of lives.

Probably Japan don't like to fight a war every few days, so while the "line's busy" in Europe she decided to fix things to secure peace in Asia-Asiatic integrity, as it were. Japan has seen Great Britain get a great hunk of Chinese territory. France also had salted down another large strip, and Germany had settled and was fencing off some desirable surroundings. The United States had expanded into the Orient and become possessed of the Philippines. It made us sick, but Japan didn't know but what we might turn out to be a Chinese land grabber ourselves. Nay for us! We are only for the "open door," so long as it is agreeable.

We wish Japan had let China alone, but none of the Caucasian powers ever let her alone. Japan might interfere with China's integrity, but we have our doubts whether her purpose is to do so much to China herself as to see to it that none of us shall do anything more to China but get some trade there if Japan does not want it all herself.

Time alone will tell how altruistic or fearsome Japan's policy in China will be. We've got some sort of benevolent domination over the American continents, so if Japan is going to imitate the great Yankee nation, we guess we'll have to be flattered for a while. Evidently Japan is afraid of the expansion habit which the white man contracted during the centuries past and which has never been shaken so's you'd notice it up to not so long ago.

PREDICTS INDUSTRIAL STRIDE FOR CANADA

The difference between Canadian optimism and initiative and American dependence on government aid for success, was emphasized during the past week at the annual session of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers, held in Philadelphia. Mr. Lincoln Cromwell, of New York, howled over merely anticipated calamity after the war in Europe comes to an end. While American manufacturers have everything their own way now, in view of the fact that the war shuts out competition, Mr. Cromwell raised a howl for them over what he is afraid is going to happen or might happen when the war is over.

Mr. Cromwell was overwhelmed with such fear that he donounced the Wilson administration for fear that just as soon as the war is over it is going to stand by and let European manufacturers send goods over here and sell stuff so cheap that rich American manufacturers won't have any money with which to keep from starving. He predicted—and it was a woeful prophecy—that every mill in Europe would start up so it could flood this country with cheap goods and close up every dodgasted factory in America. He got everybody so scared that they united in a petition for a protective tariff so high that the knit goods and underwear trust would have everything its own way.

Editor E. S. Bates, of the Canadian Textile Journal, spoke for Canada in quite a different vein. He told the American manufacturers that all signs indicate that "Canada, immediately following the war, will step to the front as an industrial and commercial nation." Mr. Bates predicted a period of development in Canada similar to that which followed the Civil war in the United States. The present position of the Dominion is analogous in many ways, he said, to the reconstruction era in United States history. Canadian manufacturers and merchants are just beginning to appreciate their opportunities and to realize their resources, the speaker declared, and are learning that closer affiliation with the United States is their most profitable policy. He said, in part:

"Authorities are looking forward to a big increase in immigration and the country will be better prepared to absorb that immmigration than ever before in her history. There will undoubtedly be an increasing demand for the development of our natural resources, and incidentally a greater flow of capital into the country, a greater expenditure on the development of industrial Canada and naturally a greater market for all classes of goods. A closer relationship between Canada and the United States is already foreshadowed by the number of American industries locating branch plants in Canada and this feature will undoubtedly become more evident as soon as normal times begin to appear. The knit goods market offers its opportunities to you; conditions are in your favor and the whole situation deserves your closest attention."

You can note for yourself the difference between a Canadian optimist and an American pessimist and grouch.

LITIGATION UP-TO-DATE

The plaintiff on his part alleges—First, etc.; Second, etc.; Third, etc., and so forth and so on. The defendant in his answer to the complaint, denies each and every allegation, and for his defense contends that as a matter of law there are no grounds upon which to establish his liability.

The plaintiff boldly declares that he has the proof for everything he alleges, whereupon the defendant gets hot in the collar and informs his lawyers that the plaintiff is a hog-mouthed liar and a cross between a knave in a back alley and a porch climber who makes midnight calls on respectable people at night.

Something along that line is what is now called "litigation."

CURRENT COMMENT.

When you find a big bunch of her hair in the brush do not swear, but pause to reflect how you used to carry a lock of it tied with a pink ribbon around in your pocket and how tenderly you kissed it when nobody was looking but a cockroach.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

The Wilmington Star thinks the Charlotte capitalists who have embarked in the roller mill enterprise have done the right thing. The editor of Th Star is not an old man, yet he can remember having seen "great fields of waving wheat in MecKlenburg, Cabarrus, Rowan, Catawba and other counties, at a time when great flouring mills, three or four stories high, occupied sites on some of the fine waterpowers on the Catawba river. It was in these big mills that the wheat grown in several counties around was turned into flour just as good as we ever saw." And The Star might have added, better than much of the flour our people have been importing. The day will soon be at hand when The Star editor, revisiting the scenes of his boyhood, will have another vision of waving wheat fields and towering flour mills.—Charlotte Observer.

The dispatch from Washington published in The Sun yesterday as to the final location of the regional bank for the Fifth district is distinctly encouraging to Baltimore. The Reserve Board, which has the decision, has postponed its action in order to judge correctly of the relative merits, from a banking point of view, of Richmond an Baltimore. The volume of business done in Baltimore, the amount of banking capital and deposits in this city, the commerce and manufacturing, are so much greater than in Richmond that it should not be difficult for the bankers and business men of Baltimore to satisfy the Reserve Board that this city is the proper and logical place for the reserve bank. Meanwhile the Baltimor people should take nothing for granted, but work while it is day.—Baltimore Sun.

CENSOR HAS CUT BAN ON "BRITAIN'S DEADLY PERIL"

Book by LeQuex Purports to Expose Spy Danger in Britain.

London, April 27. — (Correspondence of Associated Press)—At the order of the War Office, the censor has put his ban on "Britain's Deadly Peril," a book by William Le Quex, purporting to expose the spy danger in Great Britain. Thousands of copies which had been distributed among dealers are held up and the publisher is enjoined from printing any more copies. This is done through the Defense of the Realm Act.

Le Quex told in his advance notices of alleged personal experiences to support his theory that the islands are honeycombed by German spies. In one case he tells of a seeing a mysterious light in a lonely house on the east coast of England, where a German lived. He claims that he rigged up a flash light some distance away, and, employing it one night when a light appeared in the German house, received in reply what was obviously a code message. He then complains that he took this information to the War Office which merely sent a printed acknowledgement and did nothing in the way of investigation.

It is known that the censorship has cautioned newspapers against publishing articles likely to inflame the Germans and cause retaliatory measures against English interned in Germany. Furthermore, there are many naturalized Germans in England who are trusted by the authorities. The assumption is therefore made that Le Quex's book is suppressed in accordance with this policy.

MAYOR MOORE NOW IN CHARGE DEPARTMENTS

Councilmanic Deadlock Still in Force.

Councilman Merritt, Whose Absence Yesterday Prevented Action, Was Elected Mayor Pro Tem—Situation Unchanged.

With any effort toward the election of appointive city officers effectually blocked by the absence of Councilman B. A. Merritt from the meeting of City Council yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, and with little prospect of any settlement of the differences between the two sides into which the newly-elected body has split earlier than next Wednesday, all the departments of the city government have been placed in the hands of Mayor Moore until such a time as the Councilmen can come to an agreement.

Beyond the action of the body in electing Councilman Merritt, the absentee member, Mayor Pro Tem, upon motion of Councilman W. D. McCaig, and the assumption by Mayor Moore of control of all departmnts of the city government, the meeting yesterday morning was productive only of a discussion showing to some extent the width of the breach between the two groups of Councilmen.

Councilmen Bunting and Jones—and presumably Councilman Merritt—are insisting that the body meet in executive session or private conference to thresh out the differences arising over the election of the appointive officers and the assignment of departments, while Councilmen McCaig, Bradshaw, and Hall are standing squarely against such a proposition, and are insisting that the matters be taken up in open meeting of the Council, before the newspaper men and the public.

The meeting yesterday morning was called by Mayor Moore the previous afternoon, following the failure of Councilmen Jones, Merritt and Bunting to attend a meeting called on short notice for Friday afternoon. Rumors on the street early yesterday morning were to the effect that not more than two out of three of the members absent the day before would attend the meeting yesterday, and it was predicted that nothing would be done toward the election of appointive officers, in view of the fact that a clause in the amended city charter requires an affirmative vote from four Councilmen for the passage of any resolution or measure.

When the hour for the meeting arrived Mayor Moore and Councilmen Bradshaw Bunting, Hall, Jones and McCaig, were present, also over one hundred interested citizens. After waiting for ten minutes for Councilman Merritt, who failed to put in his appearance, Mayor Moore called the meeting to order, asking the clerk to note the absence of Councilmen Merritt. Councilman McCaig also asked the clerk to note that no reason had been given Council as to why Mr. Merritt was absent, but at Mayor Moore's suggestion Mr. McCaig withdrew this request.

Mayor Moore remarked that he had hoped that the members of the Board would get on well together, and that nothing would occur to cause friction. However, he wished to say, with the kindest feelings for all members of the body, that the statement given the press with reference to a conference held at his home, with Councilmen Bradshaw, Hall and McCaig in attendance, was not altogether right. The gentlemen named, he said, did call at his home Friday morning, and asked for a conference, which he readily granted, as he would a similar request from any of the other members, at any time. He mentioned that he would be glad to see any of the Councilmen at his home at any time, either on business or on a social call. He knew nothing of a factional fight among the Councilmen until Friday morning, he said.

Councilman McCaig took occasion to state that as one of the three members who called at the Mayor's home, that he recognized Mayor Moore as the head of the city government, and that as such he called on him for a conference on the city's affairs. He considered that he had a right to do this and had no apologies to offer any one for so doing.

Mayor Moore brought up the matter of the application of Rhodes & Underwood, who have the contract for constructing the new Howard & Wells theatre on Front street, for permission to rope off the sidewalk in front of the site of the building. The application originally was for permission to excavate under the sidewalk, but, it was stated, this was not desired for some time yet. Council granted the permit.

Councilman Jones then took the floor to remark that during the past administration he had been the member who had done most of the scrapping, and that he had hoped that such would not be the case this time. Differences existing between he and Mayor Moore in the past, he said, no longer existed, for he believed they had become better acquainted, and understood each other better. He had hoped to get along amicably with all members of the new Council, but as matters were starting off friction seemed inevitable.

Mayor Moore interrupted Mr. Jones to ask that he say nothing to further increase the friction, and Mr. Jones replied that he had nothing like that in mind; that his remarks were preliminary to a motion he wished to make. An invitation had been extended Mr. Merritt, Mr. Bunting and himself, by Mr. Bradshaw, to meet at his store for a conference. Mr. Jones said that it had been his desire all along to meet with the other members in conference and thresh out their differences. Therefore, he moved that the meeting adjourn until 5 o'clock, and in the meantime let the Councilmen and the Mayor meet in the office of the City Attorney, where they would have the benefit of his legal advice, and have a full discussion on the differences existing. Mr. Jones' motion was promptly seconded by Mr. Bunting.

Mr. Bradshaw remarked that Mr. Jones was mistaken in stating that he had invited the three Councilmen named to confer with him. He had met with them, and had a discussion with them, but he had extended no invitation to them, and had insisted all along that any conference or meeting must be attended by all six members.

Councilman McCaig said that he was

DRY GOODS WEEKLY REVIEW

Markets Generally Very Steady Despite Drop in Raw Cotton.

New York, May 8.—Cotton goods markets are generally very steady despite the drop in raw cotton. Gray goods of print cloth, yarn construction have receded in price a little as a consequence of sales from second hands. On colored napped flannels prices have been advanced 1-2c a yard on account of a shortage in dyestuffs. There has also been a further shortening of the discounts on cotton duck. Southern manufacturers of dress ginghams are making preparations for the spring season of 1916. Bleached goods continued in steady demand. Pillow tubings and the finer grades of wide sheetings are well sold ahead. There was a more active trade in wash goods and white goods and some of the fine and fancy goods mills have booked a substantial business for later delivery. There has been a broad demand for certain grades of 40-inch sheetings to replace burlaps which are scarce. Wide osnaburgs have also been selling well and the medium grades of sheetings available for bag purposes are in steady demand. The knit goods trade is improving. Prices quoted: printcloths 28-inch 64 by 64s 3 1-3c; 64 by 60s 3 1-8; 38 1-2 inch 64 by 64s 4 3-8; brown sheetings, Southern standards 6 1-2c, denims 9 ounce 13, tickings 8 ounce 11 1-2c, prints, 5c, staple ginghams 6 1-4c, dress ginghams 9 1-4.

Amount was $5,000.

In the article in yesterday's issue with reference to the will of the late Mr. Charles W. Yates, the amount of the bequest to Miss Minnie Newkirk should have been $5,000, instead of $1,000. The amount of the bequest to the Y. M. C. A. was $250, instead of $25. The Mr. Dawson mentioned in the will is Mr. P. L. Dawson, instead of D. L., as appearing in the paper.

DROWNS WHEN BOAT SWAMPS

L. A. Watters Lost Life in Cape Fear Yesterday at Noon—LeRoy Schnibben Swam to Shore.

Returning to the city from a fishing trip up Alligator Creek, L. A. Waters, a local plumber, was drowned, and LeRoy Schnibben, son of Fire Chief Charles Schnibben, saved himself only by swimming several hundred yards to shore, when their boat swamped in choppy water in the middle of the Cape Fear, near Buoy No. 1, yesterday morning at 11:50 o'clock. Watters' body has not been recovered.

The two young men, Watters aged about 27 and Schnibben aged 17, borrowed Mr. R. A. Burnett's ducking boat yesterday morning and went across the river and up Alligator Creek on a fishing trip. They had poor luck and spent only a short time fishing, starting back to the city about 11:30 o'clock. Coming out of the creek into the river, they ran into choppy water, kicked up by a stiff breeze and a falling tide, and the boat began to fill. Both began to paddle faster, in an effort to reach the east bank of the river before the boat filled. Their efforts were unavailing, however, and when about midway in the river, at a point near the first buoy, the boat settled under them. Young Schnibben, a strong swimmer and quite at home in the water, swam to Watters, who was barely managing to keep afloat, with the idea of assisting him back to the boat. Watters clutched him, and the two sank, the younger breaking loose. When they came up Schnibben caught Watters from behind and swam with him to where the water-filled boat was floating.

He told Watters to hold on to the boat until he could swim ashore and bring another boat. Watters said he could do this all right, and Schnibben left him and struck out for shore. Watters, he says, appeared to be calm and collected at the time. The tide was running out strong, and young Schnibben had quite a struggle to reach shore. Arriving there he looked back and saw the boat still floating, but Watters was nowhere in sigh.

It is presumed that he either became panic stricken and let go the boat, or fainted from his struggles and sank to his death. It was known that one of his arms was not strong, he having sustained a stroke of paralysis or some similar trouble while a boy.

Young Schnibben hastened to give the alarm, and in the meantime two colored men, on the west bank of the river, noticed the floating boat and went out and brought it in.

A number of friends of Watters went to the scene of his death and began dragging he river in the hope of recovering his body, Schnibben, who was none the worse for his experience, assisting them. The dragging was continued until dark, but the body has not been located. Further efforts will be made today.

Mr. Watters was a married man and is survived by his wife and two small children. The young wife was overcome with grief when the news of her husband's death was brought to her.

The deceased was employed by the Capps-Griffith Plumbing Company. He has lived in Wilmington for the past year or 15 months, and made his home at 1417 South Front street. He came to Wilmington from Goldsboro, where his people live.

HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT.

Probable Cause Found in Storebreaking Case Against Ed Smith.

Ed Smith, white, charged with storebreaking in connection with the silk stocking robbery at the Polvogt Department Store several weeks ago, was given a hearing before Justice George Harriss yesterday morning and, probable cause being found, was sent over to Superior Court. Unable to give bond, no amount was named and he was sent to jail.

Clarence Hewlett, white, charged in the Recorder's Court with larceny in connection with the case, was yesterday remanded by the Recorder to Justice Harriss' court, where he faces the more serious charge of storebreaking. His case has been continued until Tuesday afternoon, and he is out under $250 bond.

Ben Morriss, white, was acquitted before the Recorder yesterday on a charge of larceny in connection with the robbery.

MAKES ADDRESS AT NEWTON.

Rev. E. deF. Heald Speaks at Closing of Graded Schools.

Rev. E. deF. Heald, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, made the commencement address at the closing of the graded school at Newton the past week. The address made a great impression and is said to have been one of the most concise and most complete addresses that has been heard at that place in a long time. He presented education as a means of discovering and developing personality and showed clearly that it is not a thing to be put on like a garment, but is the result of growth from the inside, until individuality blossoms and the boy or girl finds himself trained and capable of doing things.

Receive Particulars of Death.

Mr. C. W. Stewart, of this city, has received particulars of the circumstances surrounding the death of his son, Oscar Stewart, at the Panama-Pacific Exposition early in April. The body arrived in the city about two weeks ago and was buried in the National cemetery, the deceased having been a member of the United States army. According to the information received yesterday young Stewart and other soldiers were riding on a scenic railway apparatus at the exposition when he became unbalanced and leaned too far out of the car, his head striking a post. An investigation is being made.

Veterans Meet Today.

The regular monthly meeting of Cape Fear Camp, No. 254, United Confederate Veterans, will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the W. L. I. armory. This will be the first meeting since the constitution was changed so as to allow the meetings to be held on Sundays, and as final plans for the observanve of Memorial Day tomorrow are to be discussed, it is expected that the meeting will be largely attended.

High School Alumni to Meet.

There will be a meeting of the Alumni Association of the Wilmington High School Monday night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing plans for the annual reception to the graduating class. All members are urged to attend.

Nurses Examination Here.

The Board of Examiners of Trained Nurses of North Carolina will hold its regular spring examinations in this city May 18, 19 and 20. Miss Lois A. Toomer, of 123 South Fourth street, this city, is secretary, and will be glad to furnish any information desired.

Why a Warner's Lace Front Corset?

We have heard it said, "We know Warners make the best lace back corset, but they are not lace front designers."

There you are mistaken.

Warner's lace front corsets represent the same standards of excellence for fashion, comfort and wear that have made the lace back numbers famous.

Lace front designs are different from lace back ones, but in our Warner stock we are showing both, and each type gives the figure lines that Fashion now demands. In you find the super-flexible, thin, double boning used throughout. You find bust heights and skirt lengths that are exactly right. You find the best quality rubber button hose supporters, and trimmings that are both dainty and attractive. The cloths are soft and sstrong, and the corset itself gives the same comfort and graceful lines every day that it is worn, and it will wear you longer than you ever imagined a corset would.

You will be interested in seeing the new models that we have for Spring.

TRIBUTE TO MR. BLAIR BY WILMINGTON DELEGATE

At the recent meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Goldsboro one of the important features were the sessions of the Art Department. During one of the discussions a delegate was lamenting the deplorable lack of interest in art in the public schools of the State.

Feeling that this was casting an undue aspersion upon the Wilmington schools, which have been widely commented upon by leading educators because of a cultivation among the pupils of a love for the artistic, Mrs. E. M. Gregg, of this city, told the women something of the splendid work that Mr. John J. Blair, the superintendent of the Wilmington schools, has done in the last few years. She spoke of the pictures of the great masterpieces of art and the plaster casts of famous statuary that adorn the recitation rooms and auditoriums of the school buildings and called attention to the fact that Mr. Blair makes it a practice to give lectures to the pupils at frequent intervals in which he explains the meaning of art in its different phases.

This address was heard with much interest by the women and many confessed that they did not know that there is a single city or town in the State that is devoting so much attention to this subject in its public schools.

"Mrs. Wade H. Harris entertained at a small but beautiful reception, at her home on North Church street, yesterday afternoon between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock in honor of her daughter, Mrs. James Pinckney Harris, formerly Miss Florie Wright Northrop, of Wilmington. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are en route home to Wilmington from a bridal trip to New York. Their wedding which occurred in Wilmington April 28, was a brilliant event. The reception yesterday afternoon was charming in every detail. Pretty little Miss Virginia Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Springs, of Hickory, and niece of the hostess, received the cards at the door. She wore a white embroidered frock with pink sash. Miss Mary Brockenbrough, gowned in white voile trimmed in lace welcomed the guests in the hall. Mrs. Harris, gowned in black satin with jet overdress, stood within the parlor door and presented the callers to the pretty bride, who wore her handsome wedding gown of white satin with court train and net bodice over real lace. Assisting in receiving were Mrs. Louis Brown McKoy, gowned in white satin with maline draperies; Mrs. Carson Taliaferro, gowned in blue chiffon over blue crepe with corsage bouquet in pink Killarney roses; Miss Elizabeth Ebeltoft, of Shelby, in light blue charmeuse.

"The decorations were Bride roses and white sweet peas. Mrs. Miles P. Pegram, Jr., gowned in black net over white satin and Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, gowned in white ruffled net directed the guests to the dining room. The large circular table in the dining room was covered with a handsome Maderia cloth and in the center was a mound of pink sweet peas which was encircled by crystal candlesticks with pink candles with pink shades and silver fringe. Mrs. Vinton Liddell, gowned in white embroidered net over silk and Mrs. George Stephens, gowned in light blue and pink flowered taffeta trimmed in lace, presided over the table. Ice tea, sandwiches and mints were served. Assisting in receiving were Miss Lula Springs, gowned in black taffeta; Miss Eva Liddell, gowned in changeable lavender and green taffeta; Miss Lida Caldwell, gowned in light blue crepe meteor with lace bodice and rhinestone trimmings; Mrs. William J. Brown, gowned in rose and blue flowered crepe trimmed in lace and black velvet. The mantel in the hall was effectively arranged with graceful branches of white syringas and clusters of snow balls. In front of the mantel was a table covered with Cluny lace and bowls of white sweet peas. Block ice cream in green and white ice was served. Presiding there were Mrs. William E. Thomas, gowned in pink satin trimmed in lace; Mrs. George Jordan, gowned in black crepe de chine with black maline overdress; Mrs. Henry W. McAden, gowned in pale blue taffeta veiled in chiffon. Mrs. Brevard D. Springs, gowned in black silk voile; Mrs. Walter Myers, gowned in purple crepe, and Mrs. W. H. McCabe, gowned in black and white taffeta, received in the living room. The decorations there consisted of Richmond roses.

"A number of friends called during the afternoon to meet the lovely young bride.

"Mr. and Mrs. Harris will leave for Wilmington this afternoon."

GIVE FREE SWIMMING LESSONS

Mr. J. P. Seitters, Physical Director at Y. M. C. A., Will Give Instruction to Men and Boys.

Mr. J. P. Seitters, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., will spend all of his time this week giving free swimming lessons to the boys who cannot swim. It is free to all the boys of the city—and they do not have to be members of the association. Mr. Seitters wants all boys over ten years of age who cannot swim to go to the association this week and learn.

Following is the schedule of the classes for the week:

All boys going to the Hemenway school, from 3 to 3:30 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

All boys going to Union school on same days from 3:30 to 4 p. m.

All boys going to any other school from 4 to 4:30 p. m.

A swimming club for men, members of the Y. M. C. A., will be organized Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, the object of the club being as follows: to teach all men to swim who cannot swim to teach those to swim better who at present can swim a little; to teach plain and fancy diving and most important of all to teach life saving and resusitation. This will include all the methods of rescuing a drowning person and bringing him to shore; how to break all holds that the victim may get on the rescuer, and the best methods of resusitation. Mr. Seitters will act as coach and instructor.

Fifty-five boys came in yesterday afternoon for their first lesson in swimming. The boys are being taught the fundamentals in the art and are progressing as well as expected. The crawl stroke is being taught, as it is the most natural stroke in swimming. At first the boy is taught modified dog fashion and then gradually merges into the crawl. Proper breathing and detailed coaching on the points of the stroke will be given each boy before the lessons are completed.

CONCERT AT BEACH TODAY

Grainger's Orchestra Will Give First of Pre-Season Sunday Afternoon Events—Dance.

The people of Wilmington will have an opportunity of enjoying a concert at Lumina today. This will be the first of these musical entertainments to be given at Lumina in advance of the regular season. The concert will begin at 4 o'clock.

The music for this occasion will be furnished by Grainger's orchestra of this city, assisted by the Arion Quartette, another of Wilmington's musical organizations. An interesting programme has been arranged for the concert today and a fine production is promised.

The Arion Quartette, an organization under the leadership of Mr. J. F. Harris, Jr., is on the programme for two numbers, and these and a bass solo by Mr. Harris will no doubt prove attractive features of the concert. A clarinet solo by Mr. Henri Georges, and "Gems from Chin-Chin" and the "Grand Selection" from the opera "Martha" rendered by the entire orchestra are other pleasing numbers. Following is the complete programme:

"The Little House Upon the Hill"—Puck.

Pre-Season Dance Given.

The first dance of the season was given at Lumina last evening and was attended by more than 200 people. An innovation in the way of music was that the band was composed entirely of Wilmington musicians. There were 17 pieces and they rendered the latest popular airs as well as some of the latest dancing hits. They were warmly applauded after many of the numbers and were very kind in responding.

There were about 100 couples dancing. The dance began at 8 o'clock and continued until after 11 o'clock. Convenient schedules were maintained by the Tidewater Power Company.

Thirsty Mortals Are In Direful Straits

POLICEMEN EXERCISE STRANGE AND DEVIOUS MEANS OF SCENTING BOOZE IN TRANSIT TO WILMINGTON

Alas and alack! Thirsty mortals are devising extraordinary means of bringing in booze, not by the ancient and accepted means of shipping by freight or express, but by checking it into Wilmington in trunks and boxes. The Wilmington police department is on to the game and the officers have developed a wonderfully keen scent. How they do it is not known to the populace, but that they are exercising detective ability that surpasses Sherlock Holmes is evidenced by trunks and boxes to be found at the police station.

To be plain and to come to the point there are now at the police station two trunks, one containing two grips, each filled with 45 half pints of whiskey, and the other trunk containing ten gallons of the fiery fluid. There is a tool box there, too, which contains 12 gallons. They all came in on trains from the North and were checked as regular passenger baggage.

Hackmen called with checks with numbers corresponding to the checks on the trunks, but to them the station employes turned a deaf ear, and in turn turned the consignment of booze over to the police department. One of the trunks and the tool box came in last night and the other trunk came in several days ago.

Chief of Police Williams and officers Leon George and D. W. Coleman seized the goods and they are at the police station. Owners can get locked up by calling for same.

Wonderfully keen scented these officers. Several kinds of "bait" are out to catch the guilty ones.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN F. A. WOODARD IS DEAD

Passed Away at His Home at Wilson Early Yesterday.

Death Followed Long Period of Illness—Funeral This Afternoon at 4:30 O'clock—One of State's Leading Citizens.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wilson, N. C., May 8.—F. A. Woodard is dead. The end came this morning shortly after 2 o'clock, following more than a year of illness, during which a complication of diseases kept this foremost citizen of the community confined to his home. Long years of devoted service to the people of this town, this section of the State and the Democratic party brought to Fred A. Woodard the confidence and love of a host of intimate friends who have for months mourned the illness which resulted in death this morning.

Conscientious in his character, clean and pure in life, devoted to his home and family and ever interested in the work of his church, a consistent member of the Methodist denomination and active in the local organization, F. A. Woodard was a model citizen.

Honored by the people he was always found worthy of public confidence and his passing is a distinct loss to the community, the section and the State.

For several weeks it has been known that the end was rapidly approaching and on several occasions it seemed that the end was come, but in each instance Mr. Woodard rallied and appeared brighter. During the past week, however, it was evident that this was the most serious and fatal attack.

Sunday afternoon the funeral service will be conducted at the Wilson Methodist church and the pastor, Rev. M. Bradshaw, D. D., will officiate. The services will be held at 4:30 o'clock. Interment will be at Maplewood cemetery.

Frederick Augustus Woodard.

Frederick Augustus Woodard was a native of Wilson county, and was born February 12, 1854, on the farm at the old home place, near Black Creek, five miles from Wilson. He was the son of Dr. Stephen and Mary Hadley Woodard. His mother was a daughter of the late Thomas Hadley and a sister of Mr. Thomas Hadley now residing in Wilson.

Following the desire of the father-heart, Frederick Woodard was sent to Stantonsburg and was in school under Prof. J. H. Foy, recognized as one of the leading educators of that period. Professor Foy later in life moved to St. Louis, Mo., where he ranked with the best teachers and where he still resides.

In his early boyhood Frederick Woodard was noted for his studious habits and manly character. When he reached 15 years of age, his father sent him here to Wilson, and young Woodard lived in the home of his uncle, James S. Woodard, and for three years studied law under Mr. Woodard, at that time one of the leading lawyers of this section.

Up in Yadkin county was the famous law school of Chief Justice Richmond Pearson and it was in that institution that James Woodard had studied the profession and received his license. To Justice Pearson, Frederick Woodard went. Notwithstanding the fact that lawyers were expected to be 21 years old before being granted a license to practice, Chief Justice Pearson, in view of the fact that young Woodard was so thoroughly prepared, granted him the necessary papers at the age of 18.

Frederick Augustus Woodard returned to Wilson, was admitted to the bar in 1873 and began the practice of law with his uncle, James S. Woodard, and together they worked until Mr. James Woodard entered the ministry, leaving the law. Frederick Woodard then formed a partnership with Henry Groves Connor, now United States District Judge, and this partnership continued ten years, until Judge Connor was elected judge of the Superior court.

Following the termination of the partnership with Judge Connor, F. A. Woodard and his brother, S. A. Woodard, formed a partnership which has continued until now. Thirty years these two brothers have worked side by side, giving particular attention to civil and corporation law.

In 1876, F. A. Woodard married Miss Fannie E. Rountree, a daughter of the late Moses Rountree, one of the leading men of Wilson. One son was born, Graham Woodard, who survives, living here in Wilson. Mrs. F. A. Woodard died in October, 1894. Several years later, in March, 1898, Mr. Woodard married Mrs. R. E. Holleman, of Raleigh, who survives him.

Keenly interested in political affairs, and yet ever mindful of his duty, F. A. Woodard has always been found doing his very best for the people of his county, his State and the Nation. He seemed to be unwilling to use his ability for his personal betterment, but was ever ready to serve, if opportunity offered or duty called. Dark days were upon this section of North Carolina and a negro, Cheatham, represented the Second district. Fred A. Woodard made the campaign and was elected, to serve in the 53rd Congress. Cheatham bitterly contested the election but the records show that when the time came, the Republicans voted to seat F. A. Woodard as Representative from the district. The next election came and F. A. Woodard was returned to Congress. In the 55th Congress, however, elected by the aid of the Populists, again the district was represented by a negro, named White.

During his Congressional career, Hon. F. A. Woodard demonstrated his ability. His speech on the tariff was printed and scattered broadcast by the Democratic committee as a campaign document.

Returning home after his congressional career, Mr. Woodard gave the best efforts of his life to the people. Devoted to the upbuilding of this section he has served as a member of the Wilson school board for 20 years, in fact from the very beginning of the graded school system. For six years, Mr. Woodard was a member of the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina and several months ago, because of his impaired health, he was relieved and his son, Mr. Graham Woodard, was appointed to the place.

Deeply spiritual and keenly interested in religious life and activity, Mr. Woodard was one of the strong men in the membership of the Wilson Methodist church. Always in his place, ready to advise and assist, sympathetic and wise, he was a close friend to his pastor and the work.

Notwithstanding the fact that he was busy with a large and constantly growing law practice, F. A. Woodard was recognized as one of the potent factors in the industrial development of Wilson. One of the directors of the Contentnea Guano Company; director in the First National Bank, the Wilson Savings & Trust Company, the Wilson Insurance & Real Estate Company, and the Wilson Oil Mill, Mr. Woodard until the past few months was busy working with other men for greater industrial development.

In his profession F. A. Woodard was recognized as a man of large ability. He was a member of the American Bar Association, the North Carolina Bar Association, and was sent in 1904 as a delegate to the Universal Congress of Lawyers and Jurists, held in St. Louis.

The last honor or duty—as one may take it—was in the year 1913, when Hon. George Connor, representative from this county to the State Legislature, was appointed Superior Court Judge, the agitation for better freight rates was before the people. Hon. F. A. Woodard was sent to Raleigh to represent the county. He did not seek the place but the people sought him and with absolute confidence in his ability, his character, and his courage, selected him without opposition.

absolutely opposed to the idea of a conference or executive session behind closed doors; that a large gathering of citizens was present and that he had hoped that all members would attend the meeting and thresh out their differences before the public eye. He mentioned that three members stayed away from the meeting called for Friday afternoon, and that one was absent at the meeting then under way.

"The place for a member of City Council," said Mr. McCaig, pounding the table for emphasis, "is right here at this table and I am heartily opposed to going behind closed doors to fight out our troubles or transact the city's business."

That the public is in sympathy with this attitude on the part of Mr. McCaig is to be seen from the hearty applause from the spectators that greeted his statement.

City Attorney E. K. Bryan, who was present, stated that he had not suggested that a conference be held in his office, but that he would be glad to have the members meet there if they so desired, and would give them his advice on any legal questions involved.

Mr. McCaig called attention to the charter, which provides that at the first meeting of Council after organizing, one member shall be elected as Mayor Pro Tem. He stated that he had hoped that his friend, Mr. Merritt, would be present at the meeting, and regretted that he was not. He moved that Mr. Merritt be made Mayor Pro Tem. The motion was seconded by Councilman Jones, and the election was by unanimous vote, the only office, it might be mentioned, that Council has been able to agree upon thus far.

Mr. McCaig then called attention to the fact that under Section 7, of the Amended City Charter the Mayor had the power to take charge of all departments of the city government, and Mr. McCaig formally called upon Mayor Moore to take over the control of the departments until such a time as the Councilmen settle their differences.

The other members being agreeable to this, Mayor Moore announced that he would assume control of the departments until the Councilmen come to an agreement.

There was some discussion then as to holding another meeting. Councilman Jones suggested again that members adjourn for a conference and meet again at 5 o'clock. Councilmen McCaig and Hall both put in objections, declaring that adjournment might as well be taken until the other members were willing to come together in open meeting and settle their differences.

The understanding seemed to be that there would be no use in calling another meeting before the next regular meeting Wednesday morning, and adjournment was taken, though several of the Councilmen remained at the hall for a discussion with Mayor Moore, who invited them all to confer with him at any and all times.

Councilman Merritt, Bunting and Jones assembled at the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, under the impression, so Councilman Jones stated afterwards, that the other members were to meet them in conference at that time. The other members had publicly stated at the morning meeting that they would not attend a conference, and they were not present yesterday afternoon.

Councilman Bunting stated last night that he had hoped that all members would come together in a spirit of fairness at this conference and get together on all points of difference and that he and his colleagues with Mayor Moore had done their part, but the others chose not to attend. He did not know of any other steps looking to harmony for the present.

JOHN BUNNY

By "Smiling Jonas"

John Bunny can I ne'er forget,
Thy face upon the screen
And that contagious smile of thine,
That brightened every scene?

Oh! Master Soul of Comedy,
Thy smile would cure the "blues"
And make the would-be suicide,
To kill himself, refuse.

Within the movie firmament,
No brighter star shall gleam;
For none can imitate that smile,
So masterful; supreme!

But now our hearts are bowed with grief;
Dumb grief, too deep for tears;
To think that we shall see thy face
No more, through all these years.

One feeling comforts us alone;
A feeling free from guile;
For we believe God claims His own,
From those who make us smile.

Wilmington, N. C., April 3, 1915.

SUNDAY SERVICES

"Never man spake as this man." What did He say? Where can we learn about him? "In the volume of the Book it is written: 'I delight to do Thy will.'" That Book is opened every Sabbath day and portions of it are read in the churches that all who will may look and understand. That is one of the many good reasons why men and women should attend some one of the many churches open in our city every Sabbath day. Those who go to church are wiser and better for going and taking part in the worship. That being so it is not easy to understand why so many do not attend church services.

St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral, Fifth and Ann streets—First mass at 7 in the morning. Last mass and sermon at 10:30. Vespers at 8 in the evening.

St. Matthew's Ev. Lutheran church, Fourth and Harnett streets, Rev. G. W. McClanahan, pastor—Morning service at 11, subject: "Jesus Returns to the Father." Evening service at 8, subject: "The Disciples Await the Promise of Christ." Sunday school at 3:30 in the afternoon. Wednesday evening services at 8. A most cordial welcome to all services.

St. James' church, Rev. Dr. W. H. Milton, rector—Morning prayer and sermon at 11. Evening prayer at 5. Everybody welcome; come and bring a friend.

"GIVING OUT NEWS"

"Never Try to Discourage a Reporter," Says Southern Railway.

(Fayetteville Observer.)

It is the business of newspapers to give the news, and the reading public expects it. Such being the case, it is to the interest of the public to aid the newspapers in getting the news and in getting it correctly. There seems to be an impression with some that particulars of robberies, murders, etc., should be suppressed as much as possible, in order to throw the perpetrators of crime off the track. That seems to us the wrong idea. The criminals know that they committed the crimes, and they know also that the officers of the law have been made aware of the fact of their commission. If correct information is given to the newspapers, publicity may have the effect of putting the public wise, and some circumstantial or direct evidence may thus be developed.

The News Bulletin of the Southern railroad has the right idea about furnishing news. The current issue of that publication says:

"No man is serving the interests of the Southern Railway Company by withholding information from a newspaper representative, or by attempting to mislead him.

"It is wel ito remember that the newspapers will get information in regard to an accident and if they do not get the facts they are likely to print highly exaggerated rumors. Consequently it is to the interest of the company that the full facts be given, and at once. Furthermore, the public is entitled to the information and the company has recognized this in adopting the policy of giving out such information.

"If you are asked about an accident and know the facts, give them. If you do not know them, frankly say so and direct the newspaper man to the proper official. Never try to discourage a reporter who is looking for news of an accident. In the first place there's no use trying, for the reporter's business is to get the news and he generally gets it. If he can't get it from the railroad he will get it from some other source and in all likelihood will get agarbled statement which will appear much worse than would the facts."

"INDEPENDENTS" WIN AT TABOR.

Tabor, N. C., May 6.—In the town election held here Tuesday, the "Independent" ticket, composed of J. L. Lewis, for mayor, with C. C. Pridgen, W. F. Cox, W. J. Hickman, M. C. Harper and D. J. Hughes for commissioners, was elected by an approximate majority of 15 votes over the "Regular" ticket composed of D. W. Booth for mayor, C. C. Pridgen, S. A. Carmichael, C. M. Sales, F. L. Phipps and M. C. Fowler for commissioners.

About two weeks ago a mass meeting of citizens was held at which a full ticket for town officials was nominated. Dissatisfaction over this ticket in the minds of a number of citizens resulted in another meeting being held a few days later, at which the "Independent" ticket was nominated in opposition to the "Regular" ticket named by the first meeting. Never before in the history of the town has municipal politics waxed so warm. The new officials will be sworn in next Tuesday evening.

JUDGE CARTER OUT FOR VINDICATION

Announces Candidacy for the Attorney Generalship

ISSUES LONG STATEMENT

Criticises Legislative Investigation and Findings of Committee as Dangerous Attack Upon Freedom of the Judiciary.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., May 8.—Announcing himself as a candidate for the office of Attorney General and declaring that he will not resign his superior court judgeship while making his campaign for the attorney generalship, for the reason that his accusers in the Abernethy-Carter investigation have made his voluntary retirement in advance of the final judgment of the people upon his official record a moral impossibility, Judge Frank Carter, of Asheville, "throws his hat in the ring" and launches a campaign for the declared purpose of obtaining vindication at the polls in the 1916 election.

The judge criticises sharply the legislative investigation and the findings of the committee as a dangerous attack upon the independence of the judiciary and expresses the hope that it may never come to pass in North Carolina that a judge will feel tempted to consider the political resources of defendants and their lawyers and their ability to make trouble for him in the Legislature and, instead of weighing the merits of the cause in hand weigh the legislative influence of the parties. The statement by Judge Carter follows:

Judge Carter's Statement.

"I feel that the time has now come when I may with propriety submit to the people of North Carolina some views of my own as to the larger significance of the legislative proceedings against me.

"The first and most obvious remark is upon the extraordinary and wholly unprecedented character of those proceedings. For the first time in the history of North Carolina the private life and moral character of a judicial officer have been made the subject of legislative investigation without the pretense of other accusation than the gossip of the streets. Within the memory of living men State-wide rumor has charged other judges with corruption, public drunkenness, immoralities with women, neglect of duty and harshness of temper, and there has been no investigation. It was only when the so-called Newbern incident had furnished to my various enemies a rallying point of attack that anonymous rumor became a legitimate subject of legislative inquiry.

Perversion and Abuse of Power.

"I respectfully submit, in the second place, that this proceeding constitutes a perversion and abuse of the power of impeachment. It is one thing for the House of Representatives to entertain charges of impeachable offenses against a judge and to make inquiries in its own way looking to the preferring of articles of impeachment; it is quite another thing for the General Assembly, in its closing days, upon avowedly anonymous rumors and suggestions, without any specific charge of an impeachable offense, to create a roving commission with power to sit after the final adjournment of the Legislature and publicly conduct an ad libitum investigation of the private life, the moral character and official conduct of a judge, and report their findings to the Governor of the State.

"I make free to question whether the power of impeachment is ever legitimately exercised in the investigation of wholly anonymous charges against the private life and moral character of any public official, and I confidently assert that it is not legitimately exercised in a public exploitation of such anonymous charges after the House and Senate have by their own act of sine die adjournment deprived themselves of the power to prefer and try articles of impeachment. It is no answer to this objection to say that the Governor could call an extra session for such purpose. It is offensive to the genius of our institutions for a judge to be placed so far within the power of a Governor. For the Governor, in advance of any legislative act of impeachment, to declare that the evidence of the judge's misconduct created a public emergency requiring an extra session of the General Assembly to deal with him could have no other effect than to cast the whole weight of executive influence into the scale against the judge, upon an issue from which the executive authority should stand scrupulously aloof. Upon what sound principle of orderly constitutional government can the Governor take any hand whatsoever in the impeachment of a judge?

"Since the proceeding against me cannot be successfully defended as a legitimate exercise of the power of impeachment, it stands condemned as a dangerous attack upon the independence of the judiciary, one of the dearest, and perhaps the most valuable, of the safeguards of our liberties.

Sees Danger Ahead.

"I hope it may never come to pass in North Carolina that a judge, when called upon to mete out punishment to a rich blind tiger or a domineering debaucher of young girlhood or a man-slaying pistol-toter, will be tempted to consider the political resources of the defendant and his lawyers and their ability to make trouble for him in the Legislature—that instead of weighing the merits of the cause in hand, the judge may find himself weighing the legislative influence of the parties. It is because of my sincere belief that the legislative proceedings against me involve a serious menace of just such conditions that I purpose, at great personal sacrifice, to carry this issue directly to the people.

"Upon the flimsy pretext of the Abernethy incident a permanent memorial of infamous accusations has been made against me upon the legislative records of my State, and to the enduring shame of all who bear my name that record must stand forever dissociated from the later record of the utter, contemptible failure of those accusations. And this shame is brought to me and mine not because of any wrong I have done, but because of a perhaps excessive zeal for a speedy, efficient and impartial enforcement of the law.

"Great as are the wrongs which I thus suffer as an individual, they are nothing by comparison with the wrongs done to innocent and unoffending third persons. But wrongs that are private must be endured or privately redressed. I might well endure the wrongs done me in my public capacity as an officer of justice, upon the reflection that in being persecuted for my feeble efforts to secure an impartial enforcement of the law I have been honored by my enemies beyond my small deserts. It is only because the wrongs I have suffered exceed the measure of injuries to me as an individual and as an official and directly attack the independence of the judiciary, and tend thereby to impair the administration of public justice, that I feel justified in praying the judgment of the people whom I serve.

Law Impotent Against Wealth.

"While we assert a theoretical equality before the law, it is my observation that, as administered in our courts, the criminal law is comparatively impotent as against wealthy and influential offenders, at the same time that it is generally enforced with rigor, and to freequently with ruinous harshness, as against the weak and humble. Upon the one hand we are crowding our chain gangs with wayward youth from the lower ranks of society and thereby, in the name of justice, converting mere delinquents into hardened criminals; whereas, upon the other hand, the influential criminal is too often able to delay, baffle and finally defeat justice.

This observed inequality in the enforcement of the law I have regarded as the underlying cause of the alarming prevalence and increase of crime in North Carolina. The poor will hate, the rich despise the law that is unequally enforced; and all will and should contemn the court that is masterful in its dealings with the weak, and impotent with the strong. Crime flourishes and increases because the people are losing respect for the law and the courts.

"To combat this evil tendency I have regarded as the supreme obligation of public office and of good citizenship; and in furtherance of such conception of my duty I have not hesitated to exert my utmost authority both as trial judge and as committing magistrate to establish full equality of legal accountability—to give to the law equal efficacy in its dealings with every class of offenders.

These efforts have brought me into frequent collision with more or less powerful professional and political influences, and such collisions, with a few minor exceptions, constitute the sum total of the 'court clashes' of which so much has lately been heard. And here is the true explanation of the genesis of these extraordinary legislative proceedings and of the amazing vindictiveness of certain of the witnesses against me.

"Premeditated Cruelty."

"I venture no explanation of the premeditated cruelty which deliberately trampled in the mire of this investigation the names of divers good women whose only offense was their friendly associations with a judge of the Superior court; and I forego all remark upon the conduct of those whose false suggestions dragged my most intimate family relations into the arena of public controversy.

"One thing is sure; there has been a very determined attempt, very influentially supported, to drive me out of office in a disgrace that would close the door of hope to me forevermore.

"My record as a judge is before the people of North Carolina—it is certain that they now know everything that malice can either truly or falsely assert against it. They know what I have done and what I have tried to do. In part, they know what I have suffered, and why. Upon that record—in the full consciousness that it is free from any taint of intentional wrong or injustice or neglect of duty—I hereby announce myself a candidate for Attorney General of North Carolina, subject to the primary action of the Democratic party.

"This is done in no spirit of self-seeking. I hold an office of at least equal dignity and emolument, and my commission has nearly four years to run, with a very excellent prospect for an eight-year renewal. I seek the office of Attorney General only because it seems to afford a larger opportunity for service—because it would enable me to exert a more active and wide-spread influence for an efficient and impartial enforcement of law. And I here and now give pledge to the people of North Carolina that if chosen to fill this office I shall have no leisure that is not freely subject to the call of public justice in any court in any part of the State and that the whole power and influence of the office shall be unceasingly exerted in every legitimate way to make the law equally respected by both the great and the humble.

As to "Fault of Temper."

"A word in extenuation of the fault of temper, which has been made to do double duty in the campaign against me: I have temper—perhaps more than my share—but I appeal to the larger, the complete record of my judicial service to show that, with very rare exceptions, its public manifestations have been directed against official delinquency prejudicial to the administration of justice; against defiant wrongdoing in high places; against such as would prostitute the law and abuse the processes of the courts to work the ends of wrong, injustice and oppression. My temper has not always been proof against such provocations—indignation may sometimes have been stung into anger, but not nearly so often as has been represented. The culprit under discipline easily mistakes judicial indignation for unjudicial anger.

"As man and judge I acknowledge myself full of human faults and imperfections, which manifest themselves all too easily. Indeed, I claim only one virtue; I have done my level, honest best; I have shirked no duty; I have intended no wrong.

"Upon this record I ask for my cause the favorable consideration of such of my fellow citizens as admit themselves to be less than perfect; from those Perfect Ones who have no faults themselves and forgive no faults in others I ask nothing.

"Finally: I shall not resign the judgeship pending my candidacy for the office of Attorney General. Whatever my personal inclination in that regard, my accusers have made my voluntary retirement in advance of the final judgment of the people upon my official record a moral impossibility.

"FRANK CARTER."

Kinston, N. C., May 8.—Hon. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent of public instruction, yesterday made the annual address at commencement exercises in the high school at Seven Springs. Mr. Joyner is expected here today or tomorrow for a short visit with relatives.

CROP PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT IN ROBESON

Work Started Towards Modern Hotel for Lumberton.

Young White Man of Columbus in Jail Charged With Burglary—Shake-Up Among Town Officials —Real Estate Deal.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., May 8.—Better weather conditions never prevailed in this section than for the past week, and all crops are said to be growing rapidly. The rains have been all that could be desired, and, while some cotton is just coming up, that which was planted late, some farmers have completed the job of "chopping out" and report excellent stands. The tobacco stand is said to be good and prospects at present for a good crop are very bright.

Mr. N. T. Andrews, 65 years old, a prominent citizen of Fairmont, died sudden'y Thursday evening. Mr. Andrews was one of the best known men of this section. He was postmaster at Fairmont during the Taft administration. The funeral service was conducted today at 11 o'clock, the interment being made at Iona Presbyterian church.

Monday will be observed here as a holiday, the banks being closed, the occasion being Memorial day. Camp Willis H. Pope, U. C. V., will hold a meeting, dinner will be served to the veterans by the ladies, graves of the Confederate dead will be decorated and the usual Tenth of May programme will be carried out. The veterans will be entertained at the Pastime theatre as has been the custom for several years.

The Robesonian certainly did itself proud in its 45th anniversary edition which was issued Thursday. It is, according to the writer's way of thinking, the best industrial issue of any paper he has ever seen in this section, one that the publisher, town and county may well feel proud of.

Shake-up Among Officials.

A meeting of the new town administration was held last night. Mayor White entered upon his seventh term, having already served the town longer in that capacity than any predecessor. There was a general shaking up among other officials, those elected by the board. Woodbury Lennon succeeds H. E. Stacy as town attorney; Ira B. Townsend succeeds Grover Page as town clerk and treasurer, and George McNeill succeeds W. G. Pitman as superintendent of the light and water plant. The town clerk and treasurer was made purchasing agent for the town, and no one employed by the town will be authorized to purchase anything for its use except the purchasing agent. Policeman Boyle was elected to succeed himself without opposition. A. E. Spivey was elected superintendent of streets and sanitary officer. Fire Chief J. P. Townsend was re-elected without opposition.

Modern Hotel in Sight.

It really looks like Lumberton is to have an up-to-date hotel. Mr. H. H. Anderson, who formerly conducted the Waverly hotel, has had a force of men busy this week removing the livery stables and barn away from the corner of Second and Chestnut streets, preparatory to beginning work on a three-story, 40-room hotel building. Several carloads of brick have been placed on the ground, and the work of construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible. Mr. Anderson says there is positively no doubt about the early completion of the hotel, and then there will be general rejoicing in all this section. Mr. Andrews has moved back to Lumberton, and he and Mrs. Anderson are boarding with Dr. and Mrs. B. W. Page.

Mr. William Conn, representative of the General Film Company, from Atlanta, was a Lumberton visitor today. The Pastime theatre runs pictures from the General Film Company, and Mr. Conn was just making a friendly call and assured the Pastime management that Lumberton would continue to be served with service equal to that in the large cities.

Real Estate Deal.

An important real estate deal was closed here yesterday. Messrs. H. M. McAllister and T. L. Johnson have purchased from Dr. J. D. Regan the vacant lot on the northwest corner of Fifth and Elm streets. It is understood that at an early date a building on he skyscraper order will be erected on the now vacant lot.

Mr. and Mrs. S. McIntyre left this morning for Raleigh to attend an organ recital to be given by their daughter, Miss Mildred McIntyre, who graduates from Meredith College at the close of the spring term.

Mr. W. S. Britt, of the law firm of Britt & Britt, has gone to Tennessee on legal business.

Arrested for Burglary.

The residence of Rural Policeman Eli Phillips was entered while the family was sleeping one night this week and $65 or $70 in cash taken from the pockets of Mr. Phillips' sons. A young white man by the name of Williamson, whose home is near Cerro Gordo, Columbus county, was suspected of being the guilty party and was followed to his home where he was arrested next day. Most of the money was recovered and he is said to have confessed. The young man, who is about 20 years old, is now in jail here. The officers report an exciting time when they went to arrest the young man, his people trying to defend him with hoes, shovels, etc., making it necessary for pistols to be made visible.

BAPTISTS INCREASE OFFERINGS.

Contributions to Foreign and Home Missions Larger Than Last Year.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., May 8.—Rev. Livingston Johnson, corresponding secretary of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention, announces that his report to the Southern Baptist Convention, to meet in Houston, Texas, next Wednesday, will show that Baptists of this State have contributed this convention year $2,700 more for foreign missions than the year previous, the figures being $66,700 for the past year, including the payments on the Judson Memorial fund.

This State contributed $34,600 for the Baptist Home Mission work, compared with $32,300 the year previous. Rev. Mr. Johnson says a delegation of about thirty Baptists will go from North Carolina to the Southern Baptist Convention and that the fight will be between Asheville and Atlanta for the 1916 convention, with all North Carolina delegates pledged to Asheville.

MID-SEASON OPENING

On Thursday and Friday, the 13th and 14th of May, we expect to have our Mid-Season Opening, and we want to show the ladies of Wilmington the Newest and Prettiest Styles in Millinery.

The new Hats are Today's Styles, not what is left over. And the flowers are Mid-Summer Dreams in Style and Beauty.

Miss Alma Brown has spent a whole week in New York City.

She has visited a good many Mid-Summer Openings there and knows the things that are new, and we will have them on display in our store this week.

We have today received forty-five cases of new goods.

The store is getting back to its old standard and, better than ever, and we are going to show you the Prettiest Millinery that we have ever shown you at this season of the year.

Our Dress Goods Department has had a complete overhauling, and all of the new things have been added to the stock. In this department we are taking a great interest now. We are selling the new goods at the right price.

The Store is different, and the Stock is different, and we want all the people to trade with us. We are selling goods cheap and selling them very cheap.

We have lots of 25c things that we are selling for 10c. It is not the amount of profit but the building up of the business.

Our Men's and Boys' Suit Department has all of the New Styles of Suits in it.

WITH THE MAN IN THE STREET

Perspiration vs. Inspiration—An admiring friend once told a Wilmington newspaper man that under the stimulus of a proper inspiration, he was capable of doing exceptionally fine work.

The newspaper man modestly discounted the accent on the "exceptionally fine" and suggested that perhaps it was not a case of too little inspiration but rather of too much perspiration that kept him from always doing his best work.

What he meant was that his daily task included such a burden of dull, routine grind that little energy was left for attempting something really worth while when the opportunity for it arose.

Knowing the man, knowing his work and knowing the amount of work that he is called on to do every day, we are convinced that buried in that clever little answer that he jokingly gave his friend was a truth of mighty proportions.

The sharp spur of inspiration often bdunts its fine point on the dull drag of perspiration.

The Love of Woman—Anent the love of woman volumes have been written yet to man, at least, it remains understood. He is mystified, by it—and wonders occasionally but for the most part accepts it, as a thing inborn and lets it pass at that. But suppose, ye thoughtless ones, that 'twere not as it is. What sort of a place would this world be? For every man's life holds a woman: there's a mother, wife, sister, daughter, sweetheart—or there was, and the love of any one of these possesses much the same strength, purity, fineness, forgiveness; it is boundless; abiding; it gives everything, asks nothing. Perhaps 'tis neglected, ignored, even scorned, yet it lives on, glorifying, hollifying the giver and, lest he be too depraved—the given.

Mother-love—blessed, self-sacrificing mother-love that works and worries and stints and saves and mends and cooks and comforts and cheers and smiles and understands and—prays! Ah, here is mother-love in all its bigness, its beauty, its tenderness, its godliness. "It is natural," says one, "that a woman should love her own creation—bone of bone, flesh of her flesh." Yes, thank God, mother-love is natural, and it is more—it is the biggest and brightest and best thing in the world. But like all rules, this has an exception, in the selfish, indifferent, inhuman, careless, cold, unsympathetic woman upon whom, through some fatal error, the mantle of motherhood has fallen. She fulfills not her duty to her child, the sacredness of her trust appeals to her not: She is impatient, negligent, restless, unsympathetic, unhappy and the pity of it is that her victim is a little, little soul maybe just come from God.

Some time ago we read a story illustrating the everlastingness of wife-love. A man of dissolute habits died and a minister of God was called some miles into the country to conduct the funeral service. From many he had heard of the wicked and shameful career now ended and even the driver who came for him reminded him that the man who was dead had been an "awful bad man." Arriving at the humble home, he was met by a woman, refined of mien and apparently strong of character. She asked the minister into the room where the body of her husband lay. Standing beside the simple casket and looking with misting eyes on the features which by the chastening power of Death had lost their grossness and become purified, she spoke in a low voice and gently: "You can't say anything good about him to the people out there; he was a drunkard and not much account; he squandered a good living with whiskey and brought disgrace to me and the children; you can't say anything good about him; but you can tell them this—you can tell them that in spite of what he was I loved him."

And bending, she covered the white face with a wife's pure kisses and bathed it in her tears. Aye, woman gives everything and asks nothing; but she is happy in the giving—blest.

He has sunk so far in the slough of inebriety that ofttimes he is lifted from the gutter, a miserable, maudlin, pitiable spectacle. His daughter, a beautiful girl just nearing womanhood, seeks him on the street by night, that she may spare him—and herself this ignominy. No matter where he be—in whatever degraded place, she will enter and gently lead homeward—the man who brings naught but shame to her. This in the name of love and a time that was—a time when her mothers' life ended that hers might begin—a time when the father guarded the child with tenderest car and encompassed her with infinite affection. This until an illness by which he was left nerveless, health-wrecked. It was essential that he work and to strengthen himself he partook daily of the stimulant which is accursed; he knew not that its power could master his will, and that ultimately he would die the hideous death of the drunkard. Yet is final farewell to the world will soon be said—his day is nearly ended. There's a shadow across his life—a shadow big—black. There is torture, darkness—despair, wretched, haunted, helpless, hopeless he nears the end, while with bended read the child whom he loves breathes anguished prayers heavenward—for him.

MOSTLY CONTEMPLATIVE

By T. W. Chambliss.

This time the theme of these "contemplations" is suggested by a friend—who writes me kindly in appreciation of some former sketches under this head and gives me a text—the words found in the Gospel of John, chapter 21, and verse 22—"If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee, Follow than me." The words of the text suggesting the theme—"Minding One's Own Business."

Wishing to be agreeable to those who seem to appreciate this effort of mine—I am giving these "Contemplations."

Peter had a faculty for intrusion. He was continually breaking into situations or interrupting the teacher, Jesus, with short-sighted irrelevancy. Incidentally, the descendants of Peter, certainly in disposition are known to most of us. In the instance of the words as recorded in this passage of Scripture, Jesus declines to permit the meddling with other lives or other careers and the words of the text teach the dignity of individual life. However great life may be in its combinations, or however strength may be acquired by men who unite for a given purpose, there must never be lost from sight the fact that the personality of character is one of its greatest elements.

When tenderness grows stern it is time for silence and deepest thought. The Christ, whose heart was ever sympathetic to human need and sin, is uttering words that have the solemnity of eternity. In all probability this was the last individual interview with Peter. In this interview Christ makes one of the final and fundamental utterances concerning the Kingdom of Heaven and its principles. Great vistas of meaning that invest life with a new majesty unfold as the reader moves through the 21st chapter of John. Christ speaks with sublime authority, for has He not conquered all things and is He not the very Master of Life? Far reaching and important are the words, for is not Christ speaking words that apply to life not merely as He found it but life as it is to the end of the world. He is facing gigantic tasks. He realizes that mighty heroism is requisite for the establishment of His kingdom. He is seeking to prepare His disciples for the accomplishment. But even as He plans there come question and doubt and what is worse, the apparent interference and meddling to human weakness.

Life does not always fail because of low ideal, nor yet because people are not sufficiently determined to reach the summit; but very frequently life is detarded and sometimes its efficiency destroyed because of intervening circumstance or because the unexpected suddenly develops and one is not prepared to meet it or because the life that may be next to us is a hindering life. Friendship sometimes becomes a burden and not infrequently the soul to which we might confidently turn, expecting help, has led us astray because of its own false conception. When great purposes or sincere desire to do right springs in the heart, almost invariably there develop interferences which keep us from our best. Sometimes it is self-opposition. The elements of which our life is constructed seem to be anticipated to the task we are seeking to perform.

The largest interference and the most serious one which we confront is the life which we respect and with which we are associated, offering opposition to the goal we are seeking to win. Sometimes the fulfillment of one's highest purpose is delayed, or embarrassed by the deliberate purpose of another to lead into some other path. The restraining word uttered to Peter, in which Jesus practically tells him that John's destiny is not to be interfered with is a word meant to be helpful to Peter. The attention to other people's lives and affairs does not injure them so much as it harms the one who is meddling.

Some folks are so busy settling others' questions and directing other people's careers that they do not have time to make a life or character for themselves. To judge by their actions, some folks feel that they are called upon to be special policemen of the universe and occupy most of their time in enforcing law or laying out programmes for some other body to follow. The most disastrous consequence is that the meddlesome life fails of its own highest efficiency. There is a profound principle involved, and Jesus meant to say that every moment and impulse and opportunity of one's life is required to realize the highest ministry in that life. There is nothing to waste. Peter had no time, if he could have understood it, to even question concerning John's life and what the end of it might be. Jesus was not willing to suffer any interference upon Peter's part.

It seems sometimes, that God has put aside people because they were in the way, because they insisted on dictating a policy or course of conduct for others. Victor Hugo said, concerning Napoleon, "God set him aside because he embarrased the infinite counsels, because he was an overweight and put the universal plan of things out of balance." It is an infinitely serious matter to meddle with a life that may be forging to the front of life's greatest achievements. A child may be deterred from some really great performance because some unwise parent or teacher has insisted upon forcing its life into a different channel. Jesus knew what was best for Peter, as well as for John, and He was seeking to direct both lives to the highest good of each.

After all—the supreme duty of the individual is personal service to Jesus—to follow Him. Our lives are to be determined by what He wills. They may not be crowded down into a great uniformity of character in which individuality may be lost. Imitation of another life, no matter how beautiful that life may be, is not essentially the highest realization of our own. We must be what we may be, as the divine light shall show us how. We must follow our individual conscience, as the divine finger shall point the way.

Corn-Mad? Use "GETS-IT," It's Sure

Makes Corns Vanish Like Magic!

A hard cap of skin makes up every corn. When you put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on it, it shrivels up and comes right off—and there's your corn—gone by thunder! Simple as taking off your hat! That's why corn-millions have gone wild over "GETS-IT"—nothing like it ever known. Some folks, to this day, putter around with bandages, sticky tape, thick plasters, corn "pulling" salves, gouge corns out with knives, snip them with scissors, make them bleed and then howl because they can't get rid of sore corns. Use "GETS-IT." There's nothing to do but apply 2 drops. The work is done. "GETS-IT" does the rest. No pain, no fussing, no changing shoes, no limping. It never fails. Try it tonight for any corn, callus, wart or bunion. Be sure that you get "GETS-IT" and nothing else.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co.

ROAD TAX ELECTION CALLED.

For Burgdw Township in June—Municipal Election Quiet.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., May 7.—The county commissioners have called an election to be held Friday, June 4th, on the question of levying a special tax for roads in Burgaw township.

The town election passed off very quietly Tuesday, as there was only one ticket in the field, this consisting of all the incumbents. The present administration seems to have given satisfaction.

The friends of Mrs. A. H. Paddison will be glad to learn that she is getting along very nicely after suffering a slight stroke of paralysis Saturday night. This is the second stroke she has had, the first one coming in April three years ago.

KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES INTENSE SUFFERING

Sixteen years ago I was taken sick with Kidney trouble and suffered terribly for three months. I did not work during this time and was mostly confined to the bed. After using other remedies I finally tried a bottle of Swamp-Root. I immediately began to feel better, and after using seven fifty-cent bottles, was entirely cured and have had no Kidney trouble since. I can truly say that I owe my good health to Swamp-Root. You may publish this letter for the benefit of other people afflicted as I was with the hope of bringing to their attention this most wonderful remedy.

Yours very truly,

Suppose We Pared These Tires

Suppose this All-Weather tread—now double-thick—was pared to the thinness of the usual anti-skid. Would it endure like this one? Or so resist puncture?

Suppose we used—as some do—one less fabric ply. Or made the whole tire lighter. Suppose we omitted our exclusive features:

Our No-Rim-Cut feature—
Our "On-Air" cure—
Our rubber rivets—
Our 126-piano-wire base.

All rivals do omit them. All of them are costly. Our "On-Air" cure alone costs us $450,000 yearly to save needless blowouts. But could Goodyear Fortified Tires retain top place if we did not give those extras?

Cost Added Prices Lowered

Instead of that, we all the time add costly betterments. We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to seek out new improvements.

Our All-Weather tread—always double-thick—is made still thicker in some sizes.

Our Inner Tubes have been thickened 14 per cent on the average.

Our fabric has been strengthened.

Yet on February 1st we made our third big price reduction in two years, bringing the total to 45 per cent. Now you are getting in Goodyear Fortified Tires the best value ever known in tire making.

It is due to yourself that you this year join this army of contented tire users. It is by far the largest army in Tiredom. Any dealer will supply you. (2331)

Sunday, May 9. Topic "Why I Am Proud of My Denomination." Rev. 3:7-13.

It is right to be enthusiastic concerning our own church, but we are to be charitable toward other churches. We should avoil all that would be narrow and bigoted. We should love all Christians. There is really but one church, and the different denominations are only branches of it. All Christians, therefore, should live together in unity, with kindly feeling towards each other, working in hearty co-operation, yet the members of each denomination should be specially devoted to their own branch. They should believe in it, love it and work for it.

All evangelical churches stand for and believe in the great essentials of Christian truth, in such doctrines as the existence of God, the unity of God, the Trinity, the plan of God, the doctrine of creation, of divine providence, of the fall of sin and its punishment, of the freedom of the human will, of salvation through a divine Redeemer, of the resurrection of the dead, of the judgment and the Word of God as the only inspired and infallible rule of faith.

We should be proud of our denomination for the part it has had, and still has, in the kingdom. It is what is left to mark a battlefield. It is all that is left after the victory is won and the enthusiasm is gone. It is the remains of an organization that once put forth every effort for existence. It won and we should honor it.

To the school boy struggling for a few crumbs of knowledge, the names of battlefields do not count for much. Just a little more unnecessary detail which civilization requires that he shall have heard. But from the brain of the veteran who knows the sing of the bullets, these names can never be erased, and as he hears the name of his regiment and again recalls its work, he is proud. Every denomination has a history of which it may be proud, heroes for its founders, and principles worth standing for and protecting.

We are hearing a great deal in these days about the federation of the churches. We should be slow in our movements for a universal church. That dream has actually been a reality. We paid for the experiment with the dark ages, with 1,506 years of ignorance and cruelty, with the inquisition. Our denominations are monuments to the fact that the church trust was broken; that the time when all the church had one mind, one desire, or none at all, is past. The denominations are our license to worship God in the way we see fit without asking some fanatical one-sided church man what we must. We should be proud of the denomination that gave us religious liberty.

The very fact that so few members know the foundation doctrines and principles of their denomination is a reason for which to be proud of that denomination. It signifies that it is a glorious building. No one knows or pays much attention about the foundation of a building, if it is a good one. It is the weak structure that gets inspection. Our denominations are so well founded that we pay attention to the edifice alone, often, without knowing who dug to bed rock. We should be proud of this foundation of truth, which stood through a storm at false beliefs. We should be proud of every stone in the structure, for they were laid with exceeding care, with much labor and often at the cost of pain and death.

We should be proud of our denomination for the system with which it carries on its work. To too many members the distinction between denominations is merely a matter of form; one allows certain amusements, or at least tolerates them, which the other does not, one denomination kneels for prayer, the other stands. At the bottom of each are fundamental truths for which it fought for religious liberty and for which it still stands, and which every member should know and stand for.

Blest be the tie that binds,
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds,
Is like to that above.

Rheumatism? Here Are Some Real Facts

How to Overcome the Torture Without Harmful Drugs.

A legion of people have used S. S. S. and have overcome the worst forms of rheumatism.

This disease of the blood is little understood because of its strange symptoms, scarcely two people having it exactly alike. And yet, no matter what its form or how painful and distressing, S. S. S. seems to have almost a divine influence in driving it out, releasing the nerves from pain and clearing the joints and muscles so they work without restraint. The best explanation for this happy result is the fact that in S. S. S. are certain ingredients which act as an antidote. They are nature's providence to man.

Just as the meats, fats, salts and sugars of our daily food provide us with nourishment, so does S. S. S. give to the blood the exact medicinal requirement to clear the stream, drive out impurities and reconstruct the body if destructive germs have gained a foothold. Go to any drug store today and get a bottle of S. S. S. It will do you good. But be sure to refuse any and all substitutes. And if yours is a stubborn case, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 109 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. COTTON MARKET RECOVERING

Closing Prices in New York Steady at a Net Advance of 11 to 18 Points. Features.

New York, May 8.—The action of the cotton market today indicated the demoralization and severe break of yesterday afternoon had fully recovered from the shock to sentiment of the sinking of the Lusitania and closing prices were steady at a net advance of 11 to 15 points.

Liverpool cables were better than due and the market here opened at an advance of 4 to 10 points. Sentiment still seemed to be more or less disturbed and unsettled, but there was a good demand from houses with foreign connections and local trade interests, which sent the active months about 14 to 17 points above last night's closing figures. The close was only slightly off from the best under renewed realizing of liquidation.

While it was reported that yesterday's disaster had greatly disturbed the situation as to war risks and marine insurance, some of the larger local trade interests appeared to be of the opinion that no serious check is to be anticipated in the export of commodities.

Cotton closed steady.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Quiet and Steady Feeling Prevailed Yesterday—Prices on Up-Grade.

New Orleans, May 8.—A quiet and steady feeling prevailed in the cotton market today with prices on the upgrade and reacting from the decline of yesterday. Early in the session the ring was active and excited and a large business was done, but the market soon quieted down. In the early trading prices gained 15 to 16 points, but the market sagged later under the influence of the rains in the eastern belt. Profit-taking on the bear side started again at the lower levels and prices quickly responded. Late in the sessions prices were widened to 17 to 18 points. The close was at a net gain for the day of 10 to 12 points.

A feature of the session was the failure of the Liverpool market to meet the decline on this side yesterday.

Cotton futures closing: May 8.85; July 9.22; October 9.52; December 9.66; January 9.76.

Spot cotton quiet, unchanged. Middling 9.60; sales on the spot 26; to arrive 2,025.

CAN MAINTAIN EQUILIBRIUM

Yesterday's Session of Stock Market Dispels Any Doubt as to American Financial Status.

New York, May 8.—The net result of today's stock session is circulated to dispel all doubt of this country's ability to maintain its financial equilibrium in the face of very trying circumstances. Overnight advices in connection with the sinking o fthe Lusitania carrying political implications of grave mport were said to find direct reflection in values of securities.

As a matter of fact, the market broke severely in the first 15 minutes, stocks throughout the list declining from 3 to 10 points. From that time, almost to the end, heavy buying orders brought a return of normal conditions, many important issues closing with nominal losses while a few showed small gains.

Some of the war specialties closed the day with losses of 1 to 4 points, while seasoned stocks in the railway list plainly showed the effect of what is technically called "good" buying.

Every precaution was taken to keep specualtion within bounds.

The money market was not a factor, loans made yesterday holding over until next Monday. Little attention was paid to the bank statement.

Bonds were heavy and active, total sales aggregated $3,550,000. United States bonds unchanged on call during the week.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

Letter From Viscount James Bryce to Pilgrims' Society.

At the Lincoln anniversary meeting in London held by the Pilgrims, the following tribute to the Great American was paid by Viscount James Bryce in a letter to the society:

"He belongs, first of all, to the United States, whose maintenance as a free republic, one and indivisible, he did more than any other man to secure. He belongs also to democracy, to the English race and to the world. He belongs to the world because he stands out like George Washington, as an instance of how greatness and unending fame may be achieved by the simple virtues when subjected to a trial that calls them forth.

"Not by dazzling genius, like Julius Caesar or Napoleon, not by consummate statecraft and a ruthless will, like Richelieu or Bismarck, but by faith in justice, by unswerving devotion to duty, by patience and courage, serenity and self-control did he win the confidence and the love of the people, and leave, like Washington, a name fit to inspire all who, in the Old World or the New, may seek to render unselfish service to their country."

GO RIGHT AT IT

Friends and Neighbors in Wilmington Will Show You a Way.

Get at the root of the trouble.

Rubbing an aching back may relieve it,

But won't cure it if the kidneys are weak.

You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it;

Reach the cause; attack the pain.

Are recommended by many Wilmington people.

J. O. Bullard, policeman, 307 Bladen St., Wilmington, says: "I was down for five weeks with lumbago. I couldn't do anything, and I was never in such a bad fix in all my life. I thought the pain would nearly kill me. My kidneys were very sluggish and I felt pretty bad all over. I doctored and did everything I could think of, but got no relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. I never saw anything that acted as quickly as they did. After I had taken about one box, I felt as though I had never had anything wrong with my kidneys. My back and kidneys have not caused me a bit of trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Bullard had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
